TORONTO MAN INJURED

A 31-year-old Toronto, Ont., man was injured Wednesday when the tractor-trailer he was operating went off Route 62, about 12 miles south of Warren, traveled 390 feet in a ditch and flipped over on its side. Morris E. Chuchmuck, 209 Woodmount ave., Toronto, suffered deep lacerations of back, possible back injuries and a laceration of the right wrist, according to state trooper John D. Barnes of the local substation, investigating officer. Chuchmuck was admitted to Warren General Hospital following the 4 p.m. accident, where his condition was listed, by a hospital spokesman, as satisfactory. (Photo by Mahan)

Mild Restraints On Travel Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee Wednesday approved mild restraints on the spending of U.S. travelers abroad.

It said the tougher travel tax President Johnson proposed might be considered later, in another package of measures designed to right the balance of payments.

The bill the committee sent to the House—falling far short of administration hopes—would apply to all air tickets for foreign destinations, including U.S. offshore areas. This is the same 5-per cent tax now applying to domestic flights.

The bill would also cut the duty-free allowance for goods tourists buy abroad and bring home.

Johnson had asked, in addition, a tax ranging up to 30 per cent on all spending abroad above a daily minimum. This proposal ran into heavy opposition as members reported complaints from constituents.

The committee announced it is deferring consideration of the expenditure tax until the administration submits recommendations on a border tax or other measure to slow the flow of imports during the present strain caused by dollar outflows. Such measures command support in Congress and packaging them with the less popular travel tax might help pass it.

There appeared to be little chance of action in time to affect this summer's tourist season. A spokesman for the office of the U.S. chief trade negotiator said U.S. policy cannot be determined until the European Common Market's decisions on admitting U.S. goods are spelled out. This country is hoping for a speedup in the schedule, worked out at last year's trade negotiations, for lowering barriers to sale of U.S. goods in Europe.

WARREN COUNTY'S WAR ON POVERTY

Head Start One of First Anti-Poverty Programs Here

Head Start programs, designed to give children of poverty-level families a "head start" in school, were among the first anti-poverty programs in Warren and Forest counties. Begun in the summer of 1966, they are still going on. Currently there is a "year-round" Head Start program with 60 pupils in four centers.

In the summer of 1966, a total of 99 children in Warren and Forest counties took part in a Head Start program. In the summer of 1967, the two-county pupil total was 136.

The total cost, in federal cash, of the two summer programs was $60,840. The total federal grant for the current "year-round" program is $78,496, of which $14,938 had been spent up until Dec. 31, 1967. The $78,496 grant is to cover a period from Oct. 1, 1967, through Sept. 30, 1968. Classes are held during eight months of this period.

Recently we asked Richard Brown, director of the area's anti-poverty programs, for background information on Head Start programs. Here are some of our questions and his replies:

QUESTION—What is the purpose of Head Start summer programs?

ANSWER—The purpose of Head Start programs is to give pre-school students from low income families the advantage of a pre-school experience so that they may enter the public school system more nearly equal to the students who have had the advantage of kindergarten or other pre-school programs.

Head Start is designed to be a cultural enrichment program. By this the children are given the opportunity to increase their vocabulary, to visit such public places as the police station, the post office, the fire station, and learn that these people are their friends. Head Start stresses not only the cultural but the physical well-being of the child and the program includes a complete physical examination with corrective health practices, including dental, eye, and hearing.

Head Start involves not only the child but its parents, and through parent involvement meetings, suggestions are made to help parents learn better habits in marketing, budgeting, food preparation, hygiene habits, and other problems of routine daily living.

QUESTION—Has it ever been shown definitely by a follow-up study that such programs accomplish their aims?

ANSWER—The comments of two local school administrators concerning their reaction to the Head Start programs may serve to clarify this question. One administrator observed when addressing a PTA meeting that the benefits of Head Start were very real. One of the areas that showed immediate improvement

New Process Developed For Extracting Gold

WASHINGTON (AP) — Development of a new process for extracting gold from previously unworkable ores, a breakthrough that might open huge new gold deposits to mining, was announced Wednesday by the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

If successful, use of the process could help meet the gold needs of U.S. industry, but it would scarcely dent the Treasury's gold-stock shortages.

An 8,000-square-mile area of Nevada, the Bureau said, is known to contain gold-rich ores which contain carbon compounds that hang on to gold so tightly that the conventional cyanide process can't extract it economically.

The bureau said scientists at its Metallurgy Research Center in Reno have invented "an aqueous chemical treatment" to break up the gold-carbon love affair; once that is done, the cyanide process can extract the gold.

The new method is said to permit economical recovery of 90 to 95 per cent of the gold in these ores, compared with previous recovery of only 20 to 35 per cent.

But so far it has been performed only in the laboratory. Pilot scale tests are being conducted, the Bureau said.

"If the pilot scale tests indicate commercial feasibility, this will be a major technical breakthrough," said J. Cordell Moore, assistant secretary of the interior for mineral resources.

The bureau said the carbonaceous ores of Nevada are believed to contain some 10 million to 30 million ounces of gold, compared with the nation's known reserves of some 9.4 million ounces economically mineable by present methods.

There are geological indications, the bureau added, that the gold-bearing area might extend into central Idaho and southern Nevada.

"In Nevada alone," Moore said, "success with the bureau's process could increase gold production several fold, yielding enough to supply domestic industrial requirements for six or seven years at the present consumption level."

American industry currently consumes some 6.8 million ounces of gold each year. Of this, two million ounces are recovered from scrap and less than two million ounces are mined in the United States. The rest is imported.

Additional gold mining could help close this gap.

But it would be a long way from curing the nation's monetary gold problems in which the gold drain is measured not in millions but billions of ounces.

Troops Call in Artillery And Napalm Air Strikes

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troops called in artillery and air strikes of napalm only 50 yards from their positions Wednesday in a battle for a hamlet northwest of Saigon near Cambodia's border.

The U.S. Command said Thursday that 99 Viet Cong were killed in the day-long fighting, bringing the enemy toll to 495 in the area since Sunday and to 1,941 in the big sweep operation called Quyet Thang—Resolve to Win.

The Viet Cong fought back with automatic weapons and rocket-propelled grenades from trenches and spider holes in Ap Long Muc. But the command reported Thursday that U.S. forces had pushed the enemy out of the hamlet and fighting had tapered off to sniper fire.

At dawn Thursday a task force of U.S. 25th Division infantrymen, tanks and armored personnel carriers resumed a clearing drive of tangled brush country near the Cambodian frontier.

U.S. losses in the hamlet battle were put at two killed, three wounded. The U.S. toll for the over-all operation rose to 71 killed, 604 wounded.

In the air over North Vietnam, U.S. jets struck Wednesday within 17 miles of Red China, aiming at rail yards and radar sites. They claimed one radar site knocked out. Newly arrived swing-wing F111 jets flew their third combat mission in the southern panhandle.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, considered likely to replace Gen. William C. Westmoreland this summer as head of U.S. forces in Vietnam, said in Washington the enemy "has the capability to conduct offensive operations whenever he feels the time is right."

Departing for Vietnam after brief talks with President Johnson, Abrams maintained the United States has not lost the military initiative. Asked what he foresees in the months ahead, he said: "I look for more fighting."

Wednesday's bitter fighting around Ap Long Muc indicated that U.S. forces in Operation Quyet Thang had caught up with some of the main Viet Cong battalions that fell back toward Cambodia when the operation—biggest of the war—opened March 11.

U.S. 25th Infantry Division troops moved in on the hamlet

Senate Delays Final Action On Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a rapidly approaching deadline, the Senate again put off final action Wednesday on a bill combining President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge with a $6-billion spending cut.

The tax-and-cut riders have been hooked onto a measure continuing excise levies on automobiles and telephone service at their present levels.

Unless the bill is passed and signed by Johnson by this weekend, the excise rates will drop sharply on Monday, with a resultant loss in revenue. The current rates could be made retroactive, however, if restored later.

The Senate spent most of the day on a series of amendments. It adopted a textile import quota proposed by Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., who said American jobs in the industry are being threatened by "a rising tide of imports."

The amendment would apply chiefly to woolen and man-made fibers. It would give the administration six months to work out agreements covering all textiles, and if there was no action in that time it would impose quotas based on the average level of imports in the 1961-66 period.

The Senate adopted the amendment by a tentative vote of 55 to 31 and then called it in on a voice vote.

The Senate also: —Voted 57 to 35 to overturn a 1967 Treasury Department ruling that commercial advertising in publications of nonprofit organizations, such as National Geographic, is taxable. This was an amendment by Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.

—Rejected 74 to 18 an effort to substitute an excess profits tax on corporations for the 10 per cent income tax surcharge—pending cut provision. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., who cosponsored this unsuccessful amendment with Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said corporation profits have skyrocketed "since escalation of the war in Vietnam."

—Defeated 86 to 5 an amendment by Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., to give a substantial tax break to small businessmen whose trade or business earns less than $25,000 a year.

Pending when the Senate recessed overnight was a proposal by Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., which would levy a special 20 per cent tax on the taxable income of any American company doing business with a Communist nation that supplied material to North Vietnam.

The House already has passed the basic bill extending the excise tax rates, but it will have to concur in all Senate amendments or send the bill to a Senate-House conference before it can go to the White House.

Czechs Protest Attack

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's foreign minister summoned East Germany's ambassador Wednesday night to protest an attack that was likened here to calling him an "imperialist agent." The attack and the official complaint were believed unprecedented in Soviet bloc diplomacy.

The Czech news agency CTK reported that Foreign Minister Valclav David notified Ambassador Peter Florin of an "official objection" to statements that "reflected on Czechoslovakia and a member of the Czechoslovak government."

He referred to a speech in East Germany by Kurt Hager, secretary of the East German party Central Committee. He singled out Forestry Minister Josef Smrkovsky, a leading Czech liberal and candidate for the vacant post of president, as one of those who are "filling the West with hope that Czechoslovakia will be pulled into the maelstrom."

The incident, reflecting new tension between the orthodox Communist nations of East Europe and the reform leadership in Czechoslovakia, came as party sources reported the reformers readying a program to shed Iron Curtain restrictions on individual liberty and permit "no-confidence" votes against the government.

CTK also reported that Czech Ambassador Vaclav Kolar called in East Berlin on Erich Honecker, a top member of the East German Politburo, and East German Foreign Minister Otto Winzer, "expressing objections and disagreement with the statements" made by Hager.

In East Berlin, the East German news agency ADN made no immediate mention of the protest. But it reported that Winzer gave a dinner in "an open and friendly atmosphere" for Kolar and the Polish ambassador on the occasion of the first anniversary of East German friendship pacts with the two countries.

The Hager comments stirred widespread indignation here. One party source spoke of a "sneak attack" and the Association of Czechoslovak Anti-Fascist Fighters called Hager's statement "interference in the democratic affairs of a fraternal country."

Nation's Living Costs Continue Upward Spiral

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs continued upward in February with a rise of three-tenths of one per cent, and sharply higher wholesale prices indicated no let-up in the near future, the government reported Wednesday.

Increases for food, housing, clothing and medical care pushed the Labor Department's consumer price index up to 119.0. This means it cost $11.90 last month for what a typical family paid $10 in the 1957-59 period on which the index is based.

The value of the 1957-59 dollar dropped to 84 cents in February. The index has been rising for the past five months at an annual rate of four per cent. This would be the steepest climb in more than a decade if the trend continues throughout 1968.

Wholesale prices rose seven-tenths of one per cent, biggest monthly jump in two years, including a hefty 1.5 per cent increase for farm products and processed foods.

"It does appear it will continue to go up," said Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. He referred to the cost of living.

Grocery prices and housing costs each rose four-tenths of one per cent in February. Clothing and medical care services were up six-tenths. The only major price category to decline was transportation, down one-tenth.

Despite the rising prices, a longer work week and a one-cent hourly rise in pay boosted the average purchasing power of some 45 million workers by 55 cents a week in February.

The average weekly paycheck was $104.33, highest in history and a gain of $1.20 per week from January. After taxes and allowing for price increases, the average weekly wage was worth $78.03 in terms of the 1957-59 dollars.

Wholesale price hikes were led by copper and other nonferrous metals affected by the eight-month-old strike in that industry, and steel products, pushed up by heavier buying as a hedge against a possible strike in August when steelworkers' contracts expire.

The February rise raised the wholesale price index to 108.0 and preliminary figures for March indicate a further rise of three-tenths of one per cent, the bureau said.

Wholesale meat prices rose in response to the threat of some farmers to withhold supplies from the market, Chase said. Wholesale lumber and wood products were also up because of a recent climb in housing starts, the bureau said.

Poverty

provement was that the first month of the first grade teacher's time as a result of Head Start was devoted entirely to the academic program. The usual lost time because of emotional instability on the part of the student, which previously required the teacher to spend hours handling the "crier", were non-existent due to the Head Start experience.

Another school administrator observed that by the 4th or 5th grade there are very few measurable differences between the child who has had kindergarten and the child who has not. However, it is his personal conviction that as a result of Head Start the drop-out rate of students in grades 9 through 12 will be greatly reduced. His feeling was that the enrollment in special educational classes will be reduced as a result of Head Start classes.

QUESTION—The average cost per student of the two-county summer programs was about $260 in Federal cash. How does this compare with similar programs in similar areas?

ANSWER—Compared with national figures, the per pupil costs of our local programs have been light. However, to date, approximately 80 per cent of all federal monies through the Economic Opportunity Act have been spent in urban areas, while only 20 per cent has been utilized in rural areas. The large costs of transportation and diversified centers raises the per pupil cost to rural areas. However, if a rural Head Start program were to ultimately reduce the school drop-out rate by 10 per cent, the resulting saving to the taxpayer through welfare payments would be quite tangible.

QUESTION—What is the purpose of the current year-round Head Start program?

ANSWER—Same as that of the Summer Head Start.

QUESTION—Have any similar programs been conducted in similar areas elsewhere?

ANSWER—There are year-round Head Start programs being conducted in every state in the United States, both in rural and urban areas.

QUESTION—How do their costs compare with the budgeted cost here of $1,308.17 per pupil in federal taxes?

ANSWER—The national per pupil cost average for year-round Head Start classes is approximately $600 per pupil. The local program on a per pupil basis is running considerably above that figure. Again, one needs to remember national averages reflect the composite of urban and rural figures and the fact that the lion's share of money has gone to urban areas.

Again, one needs to remember programs are written to serve needs of a given area, and thus cannot accurately be compared with costs of another program from another area, even though they both share the same name. A few of the contributing factors requiring more dollars to conduct the local program include transportation expenses; most urban programs require virtually no transportation expenses for pupils, for practically all pupils can walk to the center.

Rural America is not so fortunate. Another contributing factor is that we must operate four centers to reach our 60 students, while an urban center may reach as many or more through one center. Because of the diversification required in rural areas, more program personnel is required than for urban areas.

ANSWER—Locally the program involves pre-school students age 4 and 5.

QUESTION—If children of kindergarten age are involved, why aren't they in kindergarten?

ANSWER—Kindergarten classes in Warren and Forest counties are conducted on a half-day basis. This means the child may ride one way on the public school bus, but the parents are required to provide transportation for the return trip. In most instances, the children who do not attend the kindergarten classes are from rural areas some distance from the public school and the family cannot provide the required transportation.

Washington Roundup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Government Operations Committee Wednesday approved a measure which would put enforcement of laws dealing with dangerous drugs in one agency.

The measure would merge the Bureau of Narcotics and the Bureau of Drug Abuse Control into the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs in the Justice Department.

The committee, meeting in closed session, voted down a Republican proposal to disapprove of the plan which would become effective next month.

At the same time, the government announced the start of what is to be a national network of offices to provide treatment for narcotics addicts after they are discharged from hospitals.

The first three offices will be located in Los Angeles, Chicago and New York, the National Institute of Mental Health announced. It said the cities were chosen because of their large addict populations.

The institute, a division of the Public Health Service, said the program is designed to reduce the high rate of relapse among patients who have been treated for narcotic drug addiction.

Problems Still Abound With Income Tax Forms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of Americans still have problems filling out their income tax returns—correctly—although the Internal Revenue Service says taxpayers' arithmetic seems to be improving.

The IRS said errors have been spotted on almost seven per cent of all individual income tax returns filed by Americans this year.

The IRS said the chief barrier to an accurate tax return is no longer poor arithmetic but the use by taxpayers of the wrong tax table or the wrong line or column in the correct tax table.

Mixed-up arithmetic now rates as the second most prominent factor in errors.

Americans have generally compiled a better record so far this year than last in filing errorless tax returns, IRS figures showed. Of the more than 24 million individual returns filed through March 15, errors were spotted on 1.65 million returns—or 6.8 per cent. Last year errors were counted on 7.4 per cent of the 21 million returns which had been filed by the same date. The deadline for filing returns is April 15.

About 20 per cent of all returns—and the IRS expects about 80 million individual returns this year—are filed during the final weekend before the deadline—although the IRS says this holds up refunds owed many taxpayers.

About one-third of "all mistakes uncovered so far this year stem from use of the wrong tax table or line—565,995. This is followed by arithmetic errors at 428,444.

After that the most common errors are missing W-2 salary forms supplied by employers, missing signatures and missing, wrong, or incomplete Social Security numbers.

Through mid-March the IRS said it had paid out $2.8 billion in tax refund checks to 15.8 million taxpayers. The number of refunds was 42 per cent ahead of the same time last year while the amount paid out was 68 per cent ahead.

SEPARATED AT SENTENCING

DENVER (AP) — A judge split up a pair of 19-year-old twin brothers with police records. He ordered one to serve on a Denver mountains parks work project and sentenced the other to the state reformatory.

14 Of 24 Dem. Governors Listed as LBJ Supporters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although 14 of 24 Democratic governors are listed as Johnson supporters, administration lieutenants are finding that many state party leaders are reluctant to stand up and be counted for President Johnson's renomination.

A large share of these potential defectors to Sens. Robert F. Kennedy, D.N.Y., and Eugene J. McCarthy, D.Minn., are turning up in the 26 states that have Republican governors.

These states will have 1,382 votes at the Democratic convention in Chicago next August, 70 more than needed for the nomination.

An Associated Press survey disclosed that 14 Democratic governors are supporting the President, six are noncommittal, one is threatening to leave Johnson over Vietnam, one backs Kennedy and two are for former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

In Republican-governed states Johnson will have to win contested primaries to get the delegations of five states—Wisconsin, Nebraska, Oregon, California and South Dakota. In none of these is the President currently looked upon as the favorite.

In Nebraska, where McCarthy will be a challenger, the White House induced former Gov. Frank Morrison, as well as the state chairman and national committeeman, to come out publicly for Johnson.

But the delegation's 30 votes will go to the winner of the primary. Kennedy has booked himself into Lincoln, Neb., Thursday for a university speech and a meeting with Democratic officials. McCarthy will be going in as soon as he completes his Wisconsin campaign this week.

There are fresh reports of trouble for the President in Ohio and Pennsylvania, previously supposed to be securely in the Johnson camp.

The Ohio Democratic organization is running Sen. Stephen M. Young, a vigorous Vietnam war critic, as a favorite son for complimentary support on the first ballot at the Chicago convention. Young has confided to friends that the leaders are getting nervous about trying to transfer all of the state's 115 votes to Johnson subsequently.

A Democrat intimately associated with the situation in Pennsylvania said the Johnson camp's dependence on Mayors Joseph Barr of Pittsburgh and James Tate of Philadelphia for the state's 130 votes could be shaken before the convention. McCarthy's name is on the April 23 primary ballot, which is not binding on the delegation.

There are political storm signs in some of the 14 states whose governors are supporting Johnson. These states include Texas, Tennessee, West Virginia, Delaware, Hawaii, New Hampshire, Indiana, Illinois, Utah, Connecticut, New Jersey, South Carolina, North Dakota and Louisiana.

Abrams Says Enemy Can Launch Offensive Anytime

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Gen. Creighton W. Abrams left for Vietnam Wednesday night saying the enemy "has the capability to conduct offensive operations whenever he feels the time is right."

Abrams, top deputy to Gen. William C. Westmoreland and rated the most likely to replace him as war commander in July, spoke briefly with newsmen as he completed a two-day secret-cloaked round of talks with President Johnson and other top leaders.

Asked whether Johnson indicated he would succeed Westmoreland, the 53-year-old Abrams replied tersely, "The White House speaks for itself."

Earlier the White House press secretary had said there had been no discussion about Abrams' future during several talks the four-star general had with Johnson, the National Security Council and senior military and civilian leaders.

In the planeside interview, Abrams said that although the Communists have the ability to launch new offensives, "I don't know about" the magnitude of such ability.

Military and civilian officials have been forecasting that the enemy will attempt another thrust like the Tet offensive which rocked American and Vietnamese forces and dealt what some leaders have acknowledged were serious psychological and other setbacks.

However, Abrams denied that the American and allied troops had lost the initiative in the war.

Asked what he foresees as the course of the war in the months ahead, Abrams rapped out:

"I look for more fighting." Here he refused to comment on the possibility that there will be any change of basic U.S. war strategy as the result of some high-level studies which have been underway since the Tet offensive broke in late January.

Critics have been mounting an increasing attack on U.S. strategy, chiefly the "search and destroy" sweeps basic to Westmoreland's war of attrition against main force Communist units.

Asked how many more U.S. troops are needed in Vietnam and how many he expected to get, Abrams responded—no—with a comment on U.S. troops numbers—but by saying he had been here to report on the performance of the South Vietnamese armed forces and plans to improve their equipment.

The planeside interview was the only occasion during Abrams' brief visit in which a newsmen had an opportunity to question him.

His arrival Monday night was kept secret and the administration acknowledged he was here only after word began to circulate around Washington, and Abrams was seen briefly.

At the White House talks, Abrams spoke particularly about plans for modernizing and expanding the manpower and equipment of South Vietnam's army, presidential press secretary George Christian reported.

Jamestown Democrats Discuss Coming Campaign

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. — The Jamestown City Democratic Committee met Tuesday night to discuss the presidential campaign and local candidates and to elect a new interim vice chairman. The City Democratic Chairman, Daniel R. Larson, agreed a full discussion of the candidates is in order and in fact, is in progress, but that no official endorsement of any candidate would be made at this time.

The Democratic chairman reported there is strong support among Jamestown Democrats for President Johnson and for Senator Robert F. Kennedy and some for Eugene McCarthy. State Democratic Committee woman Meredith Godfrey and County Chairman Joseph George gave reports on recent state meetings held in Rochester and Binghamton. Candidates for state and county offices were also discussed by the Democratic Committee as was the June 18 state-wide primary.

The committee accepted with regret the resignation of Joseph C. Spitalo as its vice chairman.

Elected to fill the vacancy in an interim basis was former Jamestown Supervisor R. Theodore Smith. Smith, who has been active with the local Democrats for eight years, is chairman of the biology department at Jamestown Community College. In addition to serving as a Democratic committeeman, he is chairman of the first board committee of the city's north side.

Smith is a member of the board of managers of the Municipal Laboratory at Jamestown General Hospital, the Chadikoin River Commission and the board of directors of Chautauque Lake Regions Inc. He is president of the JCC Chapter of the American Association of University Professors and is vice president of the Educational Council at St. James School. The father of two sons, Smith resides with his wife, the former Patricia Conti, at 121 VanBuren st. He is also chairman of the newly formed Chautauque County Chapter of the New York State Action for Clean Air Committee.

Salesmen in Jamestown Now Seeking Motel Rooms

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — With the closing of the guest rooms of the 44-year-old Hotel Jamestown on Monday, hundreds of furniture salesmen and retail furniture buyers are seeking reservations at motels within a 50-mile radius of the city.

The closing of the hotel rooms comes on the day after the opening of the spring five-day furniture show Sunday.

Louis J. Bosse, 1937 Market st. ext., Warren, Jamestown Furniture Mart director, said he is daily placing reservations for expected buyers throughout the area as far south as Warren, east to the Salamanca-Olean region, west to Westfield area and north to Fredonia-Dunkirk region.

Paradoxically, the hotel, built in 1924, was designed to accommodate visiting furniture buyers and salesmen. In those days many came to Jamestown for two weeks from eastern and southern states as well as the mid-west, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

With more than 100 exhibitors listed for the show, indications are the attendance this year will exceed last spring. Many buyers are expected from Canada since there will be five Canadian furniture exhibitors at the market.

Evicted Woman Sees Her Belongings Pillaged

CHICAGO (AP) — Ethel Cazler sat on the curb in front of her apartment Tuesday and watched her memories and life's belongings pillaged.

Miss Cazler, 91, was evicted Tuesday from the North side apartment where she had lived 40 years for nonpayment of rent.

Court bailiffs who evicted Miss Cazler moved out all of her belongings. There was an old doll with a leg missing, furniture and elegant sherry glasses. She sat a while among her belongings. Then she was invited

Churches Set Deadline For Union Plan

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Representatives of 10 Protestant denominations Wednesday night ordered the preparation of a plan of union and set a two-year deadline for it.

Meeting insistence of delegates that the unification process be speeded up, the Consultation on Church Union took the first step toward getting a specific plan before the churches. In a resolution, they called for completion of the unification plan by next year, "if possible," but no later than the consultation's meeting two years hence in 1970.

Once the consultation approves it, the plan would be subject to ratification by the 10 denominations. They have a total of more than 25.5 million members—nearly 40 percent of American Protestants.

The consultation also made clear that the United Church will uphold the ancient Apostles' creed and Nicene creed, but won't require literal assent to them.

Agreements reached on principles of faith provide for use of the classic, old Christian creed in the proposed united church, but some delegates want it clarified that this won't demand precise acceptance.

State's Mental Institutions Cost Commonwealth Millions

By BETTY RICE

Financing of Pennsylvania's state-owned mental institutions, 19 in number, runs into millions of dollars, according to the state auditors report for 1966.

Expenditures totaled in the neighborhood of $82,801,979, while receipts ran $14,283,488, leaving $68,518,491 in excess of expenditures over receipts. The average number of patients cared for in the state mental hospitals in 1966 was 38,332 and the average number of employees was listed at 15,372.

Warren State Hospital had an average of 2,363 patients, 858 employees, expenditures of $5,787,210 and receipts of $1,107,062 representing 19.13 per cent of receipts to total expenditures.

As of September 24, 1967, WSH resident population was 1,105 males, 1,302 females or a total of 2,407. On leave of absence were 1,585 persons. Hospital statistics indicate that 92 per cent of all new patients under the age of 60 are discharged but only 30 per cent of patients over the age of 60.

State auditor figures for 1966 disclose the average number of patients, employees, expenditures and receipts of the other 18 state-owned mental institutions as follows: Allentown State Hospital, 1,594, 699, $4,363, 604, $927,261; Clarks Summit, 1,221, 451, $2,872,099, $411, 180; Danville, 2,244, 856, $5,232,985, $828,760; Dixmont, 1,966, 868, $1,989,328, $299, 240.

Embreeville, 964, 585, $3,434,924; Fairview, 1,287, 530, $3,369,793; $1,081,420; Harrisburg State, 2,104, 853, $5,008, 298; Haverford, 560, 636, $3,699,671, $746,300; Hollidaysburg, 786, 329, $2,084,766, $424,263; Mayview, 3,162, 961, $4,836,215, $554,728; Norris town, 3,614, 1,329, $8,475, 711, $1,865,454.

Philadelphia, 6,209, 1,768, $11,740,423, $1,449,083; Retreat, 684, 346, $2,238,423, $236,786; Somerset, 657, 294, $1,716,821, $220,712; Torrance, 2,771, 916, $5,613,311; Wernersville, 1,556, 575, $3,773,414, $838,141; Woodville, 2,400, 832, $5,160,225, $811, 793; Eastern Pennsylvania Psychiatric Institute, 90, 665, $4, 333,721.

At Warren State Hospital, the cost of operation is approximately $15,000 per day, which does not include any capital expenditures. Latest figures show 963 employees, including all three shifts. The staff includes 36 doctors, an average of 60 nurses, 65 affiliate nurses, eight social service workers, one dietitian, one psychologist, three recreational therapists, two occupational therapists. The largest single group of employees is 456 attendants.

The hospital is nationally recognized as an outstanding training hospital. It is approved for the three full years training of physicians as psychiatric residents by the American Psychiatric Association. It has an affiliate nursing program which provides psychiatric training for student nurses from Hamot and St. Vincent Hospitals, Erie; Clearfield Hospital, Jameson Hospital in New Castle, Meadville City Hospital, Oil City Hospital, Phillipsburg State Hospital, Altoona Hospital, Sharon General Hospital and Williamsport Hospital.

Out-patient clinics are conducted weekly at the hospital itself and hospital doctors travel each week to Erie, Oil City and Ridgway to help staff community psychiatric clinics there.

For years the hospital has emphasized research. Its pathology department is unusually well equipped and staffed and is the center of a number of research projects concerned with organic disorders. Many drug studies are undertaken to measure the effectiveness of new treatments. Individual medical records are compiled in great detail for each new patient, affording a rich source of material for study of trends and outcome in mental disease categories.

In 1966 the rated bed capacity at WSH was 2,028.

Completion of a multi-million dollar geriatrics building is expected to alleviate overcrowded conditions and eliminate annexes where problems have arisen in deterioration. Staffing, however, may prove difficult.

Warren General Hospital was constructed in 1880 with opening ceremonies on October 5 and was originally known as "The State Hospital for the Insane at Warren, Pa."

The first state mental hospital was in Harrisburg and was known as the "Pennsylvania State Lunatic Asylum." The Warren hospital was the fourth in the state to be built.

Today WSH is considered one of the finest mental institutions in the country.

Shafer Receives 'Letters' From Pueblo Crewman

HARRISBURG (AP) — A crewman from the captured intelligence ship Pueblo purportedly has written Gov. Shafer, asking him to help bring about an apology to North Korea.

Shafer said Wednesday he received two identical letters—one postmarked New York and the other Paris—signed by Ralph E. Reed, of Duncannon, Perry County, a commissaryman.

They were among nine, the contents of which were broadcast by North Korea and allegedly written by captured crewmen to governors, President Johnson, congressmen, wives and parents.

Reed's letter said the Pueblo, which was captured off North Korea several weeks ago, entered into that country's territorial waters on six occasions to collect intelligence.

The vessel and her crew have been in North Korean hands since the capture.

The letter said: "I'm asking you to use your influence as governor of my state, to persuade our government leaders to sincerely apologize to North Korea for sending the Pueblo to their country for the purpose of espionage. "I feel this apology will have a beneficial effect upon the government of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea when they decide on my fate."

The letters were turned over to the FBI.

Washington Roundup

WASHINGTON (AP) — So you don't like the way "those people up in Washington" run the country, eh?

Here's your big chance—at least if you live in South Carolina.

Rep. Albert Watson, R.S.C., said Wednesday he'll conduct a "There Ought to Be a Law" contest in his district to give his constituents a chance to propose a new law—any law.

He said he personally will introduce whatever proposal is judged the winner.

"The purpose of the contest is to give everyone in the Second Congressional District (of South Carolina) an opportunity to suggest an idea that they would like to see enacted into law," Watson explained.

He said all suggestions would be read carefully by him and his staff, that the 50 best suggestions would be submitted to a panel of judges to be selected later and that a winner would be selected from this group.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten days after St. Patrick's Day, Rep. Dominick V. Daniels, D-N.J., introduced Wednesday a bill which, he said, would increase the number of immigrants to the United States from Ireland.

The measure would amend the 1965 Immigration and Naturalization Act which says the immigrant can not displace a U.S. worker and that there is a specific job available.

Daniels said many Irish immigrants are young and rarely have had time to develop the skills necessary for admission under the law. He said the number of Irish immigrants dropped from 4,619 in 1964 to 1,808 in 1967.

"The Irish immigrant tends to become assimilated very rapidly because Ireland is an English speaking nation and its customs and institutions are so close to our own," Daniels said in a House speech.

Public Owner Advocates Win Transit Battle

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Can government ownership improve urban mass transportation?

And, when the public operates buses and trains, can fares remain low — without a huge infusion of taxpayers' cash — while service is improved?

These questions about private versus public ownership and operation of mass transit systems evoked emotional arguments recently in Philadelphia and its suburbs.

The public owner advocates won the battle, but not before the issue moved into the U.S. Supreme Court, and the private stockholders cried, "Confiscation!" and "Highway robbery!"

In 1963 the legislature created the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority—SEPTA—to help solve urgent mass transit problems in the state's largest and richest metropolitan area.

"People can't live in a place where they can't move," says SEPTA chairman James C. McConnon. "When private interests fail, the public must step in."

The area includes the nation's fourth largest city, with two million residents, and the four adjoining counties of Bucks, Chester, Delaware and Montgomery, with another 1.5 million people.

For more than 10 years Philadelphia—later turned its 60-year-old option over to SEPTA—had sought to buy the Philadelphia Transportation Co. The city already owned the subway-elevated lines which PTC operated.

PTC steadfastly refused to sell unless its 14,000 stockholders go a high price. It maintained that the fair value of its property

Garbage Sympathizers Plan March

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Sympathizers of striking garbage collectors plan a two-fold demonstration Thursday—a mass march led by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and a general work stoppage by the city's Negro community.

Police braced for the morning march. They announced a blockoff of all vehicles from a large section of the downtown area. A parking ban also was to go into effect in the area at mid-night Wednesday.

King will lead the downtown demonstration—postponed by a snowstorm last Friday—and then speak Thursday night at a mass meeting in support of the strike, now in its seventh week. About 98 per cent of the 1,300 strikers are Negroes.

Civil rights leaders urged Negroes to skip school or stay away from their jobs to take part in the march.

City and union negotiators meanwhile continued closed-door sessions to try to settle the walkout which began Feb. 12 for higher wages, written union recognition and union dues check-

LIKE A SQUARE EGG, NOT SUCH A GOOD IDEA STUTTGART, Germany (AP)

The first rectangular lens in the world has been produced here by Carl Zeiss, Oberkochen — a 115 m.m., f/4 Pro-Tessar for the Zeiss Ikon Contraflex single lens reflex camera.

Reason for the manufacture was to study the size and weight reduction options in the design of optical systems with relatively large front elements.

It was found that the performance of the rectangular lens was identical to that of a normal lens of the same design.

However, the extra work involved in shaping the round lens elements and barrel into rectangular form increased the cost of manufacture and the lens will not be offered for sale.

The Readers Speak

The Antipoverty Issue

(Editor's Note: Richard Brown, director of the Warren-Forrest Counties Economic Opportunity Council Inc., and his assistant, W. Robert Walsh, have submitted written protests to this newspaper on its current series on antipoverty in Warren County. In view of their objections to the material content in this series, we hereby invite them to submit columns on the same issues as they feel the facts and figures should be presented. Mr. Walsh's letter, submitted for publication, follows.)

Dear Sir: I strongly object to your current series of articles on the Warren-Forrest Counties Economic Opportunity Council Inc., being classified as representing the "Walsh approach," in your opening statement your writer disqualifies himself by quoting me out of context and then having the audacity to say that I have not expanded on the quoted portion.

The fact is that in the very political editorial from which he quotes I expanded on this subject. In addition, your paper recently carried a letter to the editor in which I had a few more words to say on the value of the anti-poverty program. I also have made frequent public statements on this subject.

But most important, if you have a writer who wants to quote my position, why doesn't he ask me? It is a little difficult to express one's opinion when one is not asked, and when news releases or letters to the editor either are butchered or are refused.

Your opening article also states that your reporter "has not had free access to the local anti-poverty books." This is completely untrue. The staff has spent precious hours going over those books with your reporter and he has been permitted to sit in the bookkeeping department with the books at his disposal. He has done this and has read those books without anyone directing him and has had personnel close by if he wished to ask any questions.

Your reporter has been given audited statements concerning how much has been paid to whom and for what, contrary to his comment. If this is not true, then where did he obtain all the figures which have been brought back to our office for checking (including itemized salaries)?

These figures were audited by a respected local firm and if you doubt their authenticity you are in trouble. The same auditors are doing your newspaper's books.

However, the main reason for this letter is my objection to my position being expressed by anyone other than myself, and especially by a cub reporter who admits his only basis for his position is a brief out-of-context taken from a political advertisement. I also object to being categorized by a reporter who concedes that his only basis for his understanding of my position rests on that single sentence which he has quoted.

Not only do I object to this procedure but I will take any action necessary to protect my interests and the interests of all who may be adversely affected.

Yours truly,

-S. W. Robert Walsh

Motel

Reading the letter to the editor of March 25, 1968, prompted me to state these facts:

1. The best site for a motel has not been overlooked by this interested party.

2. It has all the public utilities at hand, plus the fact that the site will be penetrated by approx. 50 ft. of the new proposed change and widening of Penna. ave. East extension, before crossing the island.

3. There have been many talks with Mr. Robert C. Chaffee, president of Oakdale Corp., of Holiday Inns of America, in person and by phone.

4. Requested maps of the area with detailed roadways shown, have been sent to Mr. Chaffee; also other information pertaining to elevation, drainage, and view from all roads connecting to the proposed clover-leaf and interchange highways to be located in the Rogertown Area.

5. The land is vacant, slightly brushy, so it would tend to develop the East end of Warren; the main entrance to main roads and access roads to the Kinzua

Dam Reservoir. Beside these facts, it would help tremendously in filling the coffers of Warren Boro. It is presently - partly in boro limits and remaining acreage in Glade Township.

6. We have been working on this site for over a year, and to this date, have never heard or seen any mention of it. It has not been kept a secret, it has been brought to the attention of many interested parties in line with these endeavors.

7. After talking with Mr. Chaffee, at the opening of their new Lummis' Restaurant, in Jamestown, N. Y., I feel assured that he will keep his promise and visit with us, at his earliest convenience to tour this site.

Think hard about this; We have a beautiful motel west of Warren, another very accommodating in the center of Warren, and still another north of Warren - WHY - not one nice motel where it will do the most good, not only from a motel's point of view, but for everyone concerned. Thank you,

Tony L. Notoro

'POLITICS ARE HELL, WESTY!'

SYLVIA PORTER

How Strong is the Franc?

The way French President de Gaulle is continuing and actually stepping up his vicious attacks on the U. S. dollar in Stockholm today, you easily might conclude that he is leading from the strength of a powerful currency backed by a history of stable prices.

He isn't, and below you'll find the facts to document this.

De Gaulle is obviously infuriated by the fact that the free world's leading financial powers have reached agreement, without France, that in order to preserve the international monetary system, the dollar must be kept convertible into gold at the pledged price of $35 an ounce. He is trying to start a new stampede into gold which will send the price of the metal soaring in the free markets and thereby reward the speculators and hoarders (notably the French Government and French peasants) who have dumped dollars and loaded up on gold.

Let's not delude ourselves for an instant that the dollar is out of danger. It will sink into even greater peril if the U.S. doesn't use the time bought by the nation's agreement to slash the deficits in our domestic budget and in our balance of payments.

But this brutal reality doesn't make the French franc superior. De Gaulle's arrogance does not give truth to his exaggerated claims for the franc. To be specific:

THE FRENCH FRANC'S RECORD: France has the worst record of any major industrial nation over the past 10 years on controlling living costs and thereby limiting erosion in the buying power of her money. Of 45 currencies surveyed by the First National City Bank of New York to show the comparative shrinkage in their value during the most recent 10-year span, the French franc comes out way down in 31st place.

The annual rate of depreciation in the franc from 1956 to 1967 was 4.7 per cent. No other major currency had a depreciation as severe as that of the French franc.

In contrast, the First National City Bank survey shows the dollar in 4th place with an annual rate of depreciation over the 10 years of 1.8 per cent. The U.S. is behind only Guatemala, Venezuela and Honduras, scarcely financial-industrial powers in the same category as the U.S.

Admittedly, our record is now deteriorating and that's basic to our problem. But the franc's record still remains dreadful.

THE DEVALUATION HISTORY: The 20th century record of the franc has been hideous. Since 1910, the currency has lost 99 per cent of its value in terms of the U. S. dollar, mind you, 99 per cent!

In 1910, the franc was worth 20 U.S. cents; in 1920, it was down to 9 cents; in 1930, to 4 cents; in 1940, to 2 cents; in 1950, to 3/10 of a U. S. cent; and by 1960, it had shriveled to 2/10 cents.

In 1960, France ordered 100 old francs to be turned in for one new franc, thereby erasing a couple of zeros and making the franc that was worth 2/10 of a cent worth 20 cents. That made the currency appear "harder" and France's record since 1960 has been without blemish but that doesn't alter the history.

Again in contrast, the U. S. dollar has been devalued only once in our 179-year history. That took place in 1934 when the U. S. raised the price of gold from $20.67 an ounce to $35, equivalent to a 41 per cent devaluation. That was 34 years ago.

FRANCE'S GOLD RECORD: Because of the franc's awful history, the French people and the French Government have been traditionally hoarders of gold. France never has used her gold as we have, and England has, to develop world trade, promote the prosperity of nations. Instead, De Gaulle has taken the dollars France has accumulated and turned them in for our gold; since 1958, he has built France's gold hoard from next to nothing to over $5 1/2 billion.

Of course a reason France is trying to topple the dollar is the profit his government and the French people would make if the gold price soared. This goal ranks second only to De Gaulle's eagerness to see the downfall of the U.S. and the destruction of all who have trusted the U.S. dollar.

None of this eases the challenge to our dollar, but I trust, help put De Gaulle's franc where it belongs.

Rocky? Nixon? And Viet

I do not share the amused disdain with which the critics have greeted Richard Nixon's statement that he will not disclose the details of his program for ending the Vietnamese War. That is the statement of a serious man, that is to say, a man who believes that in fact he may end up with the responsibility for administering the war. What it comes down to is this: knowing what we know about Nixon, is it likely that he would, upon being elected, dramatically reverse himself concerning our commitment to Vietnam as bearing directly on the prospects for the national security?

The probabilities are very much against any such tergiversation. That's why so many of the people who dislike Nixon dislike him. They know that his anti-Communist resolution is as firm as just about anything in national politics. They don't like that. And they don't like Nixon, who affects them the way Adlai Stevenson used to affect some conservatives.

Now how about Rocky? Even though he has ritualistically withdrawn he does remain a contender for the presidency. There is a rough one for those critics who almost to a man continue to clamor for his nomination. Why? Forget the domestic record for moment, though of course the liberals take the same pleasure in viewing his domestic record that a narcissist would. On the matter of Vietnam, Mr. Rockefeller is saddled with a resonant statement given in 1964. "Winning the fight for freedom in Vietnam," he said in Oregon during the Primary campaign, "is essential to the survival of all of Asia. The Communist Viet Cong guerrillas must be defeated."

Now Mr. Rockefeller is speaking vaguely about the need for an "accommodation" (who's against that?). But get this important difference: his vagueness comes off as statesmanship, in sharp contrast with Nixon which is taken as cynicism - and for a reason no more complex than that Rockefeller rubs liberals the right way, and Nixon doesn't. Thus Mr. Geyelin of The Washington Post who has had an exclusive interview with Mr. Rockefeller says that Rockefeller "has scorn for the generalized promises and broadside critiques of Richard M. Nixon. But he has plainly moved some distance from his earlier unreserved advocacy of the U.S. effort in Vietnam." Just the thing, of course, to whet the appetite of his supporters: scorn for Nixon, and an "advantage" (how is that for a planted semantical axiom) in his views on the U.S. effort in Vietnam.

What the hell, so everybody else is talking, so will I. I have had exclusive interviews with Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Nixon in recent weeks. Mr. Nixon answered in considerable detail questions on what he would do in Vietnam, and the whole of it was plausible, responsible, nongimmicky, and a sound projection of the strategic posture that took us into Vietnam in the first place, i.e. that Southeast Asia is a place where rampaging Communism should be contained.

Mr. Rockefeller did not discuss Vietnam, but did discuss at great and earnest length his anti-Communist background, right back to his service as a young man as a trustee of a school undermined by Communists. It was left for me to infer that Mr. Rockefeller is incapable of any such inconsistency as would cause him, now, to change direction. But -- of crucial political importance, as I say -- Mr. Rockefeller must suggest to the public that he would find a peaceful alternative to the struggle of the moment. And his peaceful alternative must be made to sound plausible and progressive, whilst Mr. Nixon's must be made to sound reckless and recidivist.

One can't get too excited about these things, that being the way politics is. Surely the point is that our policy towards Vietnam has got to change. There was talk, a year or so ago, among anti-Communist conservatives, of a mass movement to support Johnson in the event the Republicans nominated a dove. Such talk is increasingly implausible, because it is increasingly difficult to defend Johnson's conduct of the war.

General David M. Shoup of the Marines, who has opposed the war right along, makes a plain military statement of fact, that you can't win wars unless you resolve to destroy the armies of the enemy. We haven't even resolved to do that. Mr. Johnson's resolution is seen more and more visibly to be a resolution to lose the war very slowly, with dignity and restraint.

But even within the party structure and the labor unions, the younger leaders are in a stubbornly independent mood. Johnson can count on Meany but not on Walter Reuther. He is sure of Daley on the early ballots, but he has already lost Jesse Unruh of California and Gov. Philip Hoff of Vermont to Kennedy, and even Gov. Harold Hughes of Iowa has threatened to leave the President unless he changes his Vietnam policy.

More than that, as Mayor John Lindsay of New York demonstrated in the last big city election

The older men, following the old party rules, are sticking with Johnson. George Meany, head of the AFL-CIO, mayor Dick Daley of Chicago and most of the other venerable "bosses" in the big cities, and even Averell Harriman of New York, who is a close personal friend of Robert Kennedy, have proclaimed their loyalty.

WASHINGTON -- By all the old tests of party politics, President Johnson would seem to be assured of renomination, if he wants it. But this is just the trouble, for the old tests are no longer reliable. Party loyalty and party machinery have never been weaker than they are now, and for this and many other reasons, the President may be in much deeper trouble than most voters believe.

Decline of Party Politics

WASHINGTON -- The decision to bring Gen. William Westmoreland back to the United States caught Washington completely by surprise. Even Joseph Wallstop, the syndicated hawk and widely read pundit, had been kept in the dark on the President's plans.

This didn't go down too well with Wallstop when I saw him a few days later at the Army-Navy Club.

"No one consulted me," Wallstop complained. "I had to read about Westmoreland's recall in the newspapers."

"It's typical of the President," I said, trying to placate my friend. "The people involved are the last to know."

"Even Westmoreland knew before I did," Wallstop said. "But not by much," I pointed out.

"Well, I think it's sheer idiocy," Wallstop said angrily. "Just when the tide has turned and we have the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese on the run, and the Hue offensive proved once and for all that we were fighting paper tigers, Johnson has given into political expediency. Doesn't the President know that I need Westmoreland in Vietnam?"

"But there will be other generals, Joe, and I'm sure they'll work with you."

"That's not the point," Wallstop said. "Westmoreland understands his strategy. He's a 'search and destroy' man as I am; he understands my atti-tion, the opposition of the Democratic Party bosses is no longer an insurmountable barrier. For we are now in a wholly new era of political action in America, where the television, the pop psychology, and new personalities can and often do topple the old political power structures.

That is what makes the nomination of Johnson, and even Nixon, far less certain than might appear on the surface. For under the surface deep tides of opinion are running. The war in Vietnam and the riots in the cities have startled even some of the most devoted partisans out of their normal ways of thinking and acting. The television gives the opposition candidates instant contact with vast audiences, and the ideological differences between the parties have narrowed.

Accordingly, candidates can now reach beyond the political organizations to the people. The "bosses" no longer have the same power to "boss" the "faithful" or punish the dissenters.

Thus McCarthy was able to challenge Johnson and the Democratic machine in New Hampshire, even without adequate financial support. Kennedy is infiltrating the party machinery where he can and vaulting over it where he cannot. Sen. Mark Hatfield of Oregon feels independent enough to say on national television that he will not hesitate to put the issue of peace above party in the election and will vote for Kennedy rather than Nixon if Nixon does not change his Vietnam stand. It is quite possible for this combination of great issues, television, and new candidates, backed by an aroused and youthful political army, to smash all the assumptions of the old pros.

Even many of the potential delegates to the Democratic convention are saying to the Kennedy and McCarthy people: "We are going along with Johnson for the time being, but we're waiting for Wisconsin and the late polls and then we'll decide."

Wisconsin could give the President quite a shock. Even the wife of the Republican governor there was in McCarthy's audience at Madison the other night. Bill Eby's Capital Times in Madison came out for McCarthy, and one labor union leader, discouraged by the response to his appeals for Johnson, predicted that McCarthy would not only win next Tuesday but win by a substantial majority.

So the old faith in the domination of the pros, even in party conventions, may not prevail this time. McCarthy and Kennedy have made a good start. If they keep the momentum, the polls will reject their rising challenge, and even the delegates, particularly the young ones, will be hard to control.

This is, thanks to television, a more representative democratic process. The idea is getting around that politics is too serious a business to be left to soldiers, and if this spreads even the will of an incumbent president can be overcome.

"Well, those experts will soon have jam on their faces. Of course, I can't be responsible for every minor setback in Vietnam, particularly when the President won't give me the troops I've asked for."

"That's right," I said. "You did call up the reserves last month, didn't you?"

"I certainly did, not just in one column, but in three. Yet the President overruled me. I can't get it through to the Administration that if I'm going to be proven right in my column, I need at least 500,000 more men."

"Maybe not at first, but we certainly could get the pacification program off the ground."

The 'Ethnic' Vote

HARRISBURG -- One of the most interesting and perhaps indicative transitions on the Pennsylvania scene in recent years has been the growing inability of old line political pros to count firmly anymore on the effectiveness at election time of the once great so-called "ethnic" vote.

In actuality, this decline is almost natural; one to be expected in the melting pot era of the mid-century -- but for the old political pros of yesteryear it is a difficult fact of political life to digest.

There are those of the more naive bent; the standard on-the-surface hopefuls who still like to dwell on the antiquated theory that the foreign language blocs are the potent force of an era long since all but vanished from the contemporary scene.

The Latvians, the Poles, the Irish, the Scandinavians, the Italians -- and all the others who make up the so-called ethnic groups -- in the generation or two since their forbearers first came to the shores of Pennsylvania have shed a great degree of their old country tenacity for blind adherence as an ethnic group, to issues, to candidates.

Where once political strategists were able to play heavily on the group issue and lined up their candidates accordingly in the Keystone State to pull the heavy "foreign element vote," this once fertile field -- in comparison -- has all but dried up.

The intense melting pot era -- particularly since World War II -- has diffused the ethnic lines of two or even one generation ago. The pragmatic era of simply "do as the boss sees" has gradually dissipated of its own free will producing an era of independence heretofore completely unknown on the ethnic front.

It is to the eternal credit of these ethnic groups that they have emerged from their restrictive cocoons; learned and insisted upon thinking for themselves as individuals -- voting as they feel inclined to vote, for this or that candidate of his or her respective choice.

Tickets of candidates -- such as statewide tickets -- are no longer made up with the great view of trying to appeal to these groups in the old heavy-handed sense. A look at the candidates of both parties in Pennsylvania illustrates the point rather well.

The ethnic considerations no longer carry the great weight of former years, although routine effort is made to balance tickets for at least some sort of secondary consideration for all minority groups -- race, religion, nationality, etc. -- an obviously impossible task to the satisfaction of everyone.

The uninitiated may see a name of an Irishman on the ticket and immediately conclude that here indeed is a potent appeal to the Irish -- yet when you come right down to it, what candidate in this country (outside of the native Indians) won't have some derivation from a foreign land; and ethnic designation!

The vote potential of the various diversified groups is of course considered whenever a candidate slate is made up -- but so is every other conceivable factor. Whereas the ethnic facet used to be considered one of the prime factors, today it has dwindled to one of the many "a" factors.

It is an important factor -- but so are the other factors that go into the make up of any candidate selection!

Bearded political old pros today bemoan the loss of these once easily dominated groups as they watch their single-arm control in concert with the political machines of yesteryear fade from their grasp in favor of the more logical (but politically unwanted) diffused, independent electorate.

Times have changed as the old single-track ethnic groups of yesteryear merge into contemporary America -- and contemporary Pennsylvania.

The Republican organization in Pennsylvania was reported as looking favorably upon Senator Arthur Vandenberg for the party's presidential nomination.

Market Continues Recovery Drive

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market Wednesday stretched its recovery drive into the second session. Trading grew heavier. Volume was 9.01 million shares compared with 8.66 million Tuesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 5.03 to 836.57.

The market rose from the start, easily weathered some profit-taking in early afternoon, then moved up again to close at about its best of the day.

The ability of the market to rally on Tuesday encouraged some investors. The knowledge that mutual funds and other institutional investors have huge buying reserves, waiting to be committed to the market, was another.

Investors were cheered also by news that the U.S. Senate was moving toward legislation which would combine spending cuts with a tax increase, thus lending hope that the severe monetary problems would be solved.

Another bullish factor on the economic front was the 13th straight rise in the cost of living index and, more important, that despite this inflationary step a sharp advance also was made in "real" buying power for workers.

Gold mining stocks declined as the price of gold bullion softened in foreign markets.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 1.8 to 301.6 with industrials up 2.9, rails up .6 and utilities up 1.2.

Senate Adopts Textile Import Quota, 54 to 31

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate adopted today a textile import quota proposal offered by Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D.S.C., as an amendment to a House-passed excise tax bill.

Sens. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., sought to kill the proposal with a tabling motion but were defeated 54 to 31.

The amendment then was adopted 55 to 31 but because of the parliamentary situation it will not be locked into the Senate version of the legislation finally until a later vote.

Hollings declared that his proposal was essential to preserve American jobs in the industry from "a rising tide of imports."

Hart and Percy contended that the textile proposal, if adopted, would be the forerunner of a string of import quota amendments which could set off retaliation from America's trading partners.

The amendment would apply chiefly to woolen and man-made fibers since there already is an agreement limiting imports of cotton textiles into the U.S.

It would allow the administration six months to work out agreements covering all textiles.

If there was no action in that period, it would impose quotas based on the average level of imports in the 1961-66 period.

This would mean a cutback from imports totaling 10.1 per cent of domestic consumption in 1967 to 8.6 per cent for the six-year base.

The result was a defeat for President Johnson. He sent several cabinet members to a hearing before the Senate Finance Committee last fall to testify in opposition to a variety of import quota proposals.

The White House meanwhile had no comment on efforts to get Senate passage of a fiscal bill that would combine a $6 billion cutback in federal spending with a 10 per cent surcharge of income taxes. Presidential press secretary George Christian said the White House was not to get into the "lobbying processes" on various bills.

Clark Invades Territory Of Rival

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa. (AP)—U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark invaded the territory of his Democratic primary rival Wednesday night and said the best reason for the people of Pennsylvania to elect him is his 11 years of Senate seniority.

something less controversial than a political fight," Clark told about 200 of his supporters. "I am here to talk about seniority."

Opposing him in the April primary is Congressman John Dent, who represents this area.

Clark said his seniority and his positions on Senate committees dealing with foreign relations, manpower training and poverty would be of more benefit to Pennsylvania than anything that a junior senator could offer.

'68 Crusade Volunteers Swinging into Action

April 1 marks the beginning of Cancer Month and the Warren County Unit's annual educational and fund-raising Crusade. Cancer Society headquarters at 404 Market Street in Warren has been a beehive of activity the past few weeks with the work of laying the organizational foundation for the campaign.

The county is divided into seventeen areas or "branches" plus Warren borough. A chairman has been appointed for each branch, as follows:

Branch 1, Mrs. Jack Wheeler, Youngsville; Branch 2, Mrs. Robert Sweetland, Youngsville; Branch 3, Mrs. Paul Cariberg, Sugar Grove; Branch 4, Mrs. Richard Schmitt, Russell; Branch 5, Mrs. George O'Dea, North Warren; Branch 6, Mrs. Leonard Pierson, Scandia Road, Warren; Branch 7, Mrs. James Stevenson, Newbold Court, Warren; Branch 8, Mrs. Chester Walker, Clarendon; Branch 9, Mrs. Gerald Corbran, Starbrick; Branch 10, Mrs.

Lenore McIntyre, Tidkous; Branch 11, Mrs. Kay Burligh, Grand Valley; Branch 12, Mrs. Ralph Santo, Sheffield; Branch 13, Mrs. Lucille Irvine, Pittsfield (Wrightsville area); Branch 14, Mrs. Lowell Fargo, Cohabus; Branch 15, Mrs. Arthur Brundage, Spring Creek; Branch 16, Mr. Mark Summerason, Pittsfield; Branch 17, Mrs. Clinton Johnson, Irvine; and Mrs. William Bunk, Warren borough.

These branch chairmen, in turn, appoint captains in their areas and the captains enlist the volunteers who will make the actual house-to-house canvass. Hundreds of volunteers across the county are thus involved in the actual work of the campaign and to these workers must go much of the credit for the repeated success of the annual Cancer Crusade.

Pa. Native Gunned Down In Detroit

OIL CITY — A 46-year-old Royal Oak, Mich., man, son of a Franklin woman, was gunned down and killed by a rifle-toting holdup man shortly after midnight March 14 in a Detroit bar.

The victim, one of five customers in the bar shot and one of two killed, was the son of Mrs. Gertrude Charlton and a brother of Mrs. Joseph Edwards, 522 Twelfth st., Franklin.

A salesman for Admiral Corp., Charlton and another salesman for the corporation entered the lounge shortly before midnight to get something to eat. Admiral Corporation's Detroit office is located across the street from the lounge and salesmen were accustomed to stopping there to eat.

The gunman followed the two salesmen into the bar, took their wallets but not the wallets of three other customers. He ordered Charlton to sit on one of the bar stools and told him he didn't like his looks.

The gunman then turned to another customer, told him he didn't like his looks either and began shooting with what appeared to be a .22 calibre rifle.

Charlton was shot in the back twice, hit in the chest and abdomen and fell from the bar stool. Survivors in addition to his mother and sister in Franklin include his wife, Ruth; a daughter, Patricia, 21; a son, David, 17, three other sisters and a brother.

He was a fighter pilot in World War II and was highly regarded in the Royal Oak community.

Bomb Shatters JP's Office

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A bomb shattered the office of a West Homestead justice of the peace and councilman Wednesday for the fourth time.

Elmer Hoffman said he thinks the bomb was thrown in his office shortly after midnight by someone he had held for court. But Hoffman didn't name anyone.

It was the seventh bombing in the Pittsburgh suburb since July. So far no one's been hurt.

These Are A Few . . .

We had planned to save this column until last (A-minus-two, all systems are "go"), but decided not to "hang it up" on a sour note. These are a few of our un-favorite things. Call them pet peeves, forgettable moments or whatever you choose. We're getting them off our chest. If you take any of them personally, you have a guilty conscience.

They're rated from 1 to 10 in the order of which they bug us. We'll list them first, then go into detail below.

1. The tragic loss of athletes' lives.
2. All-Star teams.
3. Monday morning quarterbacks
4. Postponement of football games because of rain.
5. Second place finishes in wrestling.
6. Pre-event publicity, but no post-event report.
7. No first names in reports.
8. Compliments to our face, complaints behind our back.
9. People whose children can do no wrong.
10. Crank letters from other towns.

Number one on the list far outweighs all the others combined. We'd gladly take double numbers two through ten if we could eliminate number one. Unfortunately, athletes are people and the senseless loss of people's lives will never cease. The passing of Jim Beichner was a particularly hard blow to us personally.

No. 2—We've expounded on the ridiculousness of All-Star Teams before. It's fine for the boy who gets recognition because he deserves it, but if one good athlete loses an opportunity for a scholarship he needs because he didn't make an "all" team, the fault of the system far outweighs the benefit.

No. 3—Include fans who think they know more than the coach among the Monday Morning quarterbacks. Also fans who criticize athletes for mistakes. To quote an old philosopher, the critic makes no mistakes because he doesn't attempt anything. The doer makes mistakes because he attempts many things.

No. 4—People who postpone football games because it's raining don't have the best interests of athletics. The dollar bill is their god.

No. 5—Being runner-up in wrestling for three straight seasons has been as frustrating to us as it has been to Mike Weber, his staff and the Dragons. One of our regrets at leaving is that we won't be here to see them become champions.

No. 6—There are few things more maddening to a sports writer than sitting by the phone for a report of an event after saturating his pages with publicity before the event. Late calls when a team loses also included in this category.

No. 7—Closely related to number six. It takes so little time to learn the first names of the opponent. Just as bad is some first names, a few first initials and a couple last names only.

No. 8—We are as self-centered as the next person. If we do something well, we like to be told about it. When we write something bad, we can take criticism. Going "over his head" to complain is particularly irritating, and we consider it a form of cowardice.

No. 9—Parents who believe other people's children make all the mistakes suffer the biggest disappointments. Especially true in athletics, because the athlete's conduct reflects the parent's attitude.

No. 10. We have enough problems keeping the local fans happy without hearing unfounded complaints from parents and fans in other areas. We've been threatened, insulted and denounced for our writing and we've run out of patience.

Now, you realize that's only the top ten. (That's another thing! How can you pick a "Top Ten" when the teams don't even meet? Who's the number one college basketball team in the country? Who isn't number three?)

There are a few more that "also received votes" as they say. Maybe we should include them in our "honorable mention" list, or more correctly, give them "dishonorable mention."

Other sports writers bug us. Especially the ones who work for an afternoon newspaper and have no conception of the difficulties of putting together the page for a morning newspaper. Particularly upsetting are the ones that make snide remarks about the lack of coverage in the TMO when a Warren team loses. They forget that you can't print a word unless you receive a report on the event (number six above).

Also the writer who doesn't have any first names for the opponent (number seven above), so he guesses and gets all of them wrong.

Another "dishonorable mention" goes to fans who "boo" the opponent. Add fans who physically and verbally assault officials, charge that their team was cheated or just alibi after a loss generally.

Don't forget athletes who feign injury to gain rest or some other advantage, especially a forfeit from another athlete who has worked just as hard or harder to win his prizes honestly.

Or athletes and coaches who deliberately break the rules in order to win. And coaches who conduct themselves in a manner that embarrasses his team, his school and his town.

And coaches who think only of their record, not the welfare of the athletes, or are unwilling

THE TIGER POUNCES

Warren's Dick "Tiger" Thompson executes but then lost to Joe Green of Bowling Green a perfect double-leg takedown for two points. In his next match, Thompson, a junior at Arizona against Lee Castner of Syracuse during their State University, posted a 22-6 regular season 177-pound preliminary match at the NCAA Wrestling Championships at Penn State last Thursday, the TMO. The ex-Dragon star easily defeated Castner.

Big E Rejects Mavericks' Offer, Signs Rocket Pact

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Elvin Hayes, college basketball's player-of-the-year, signed a six-figure contract Wednesday to play for the San Diego Rockets of the National Basketball Association.

The signing of Hayes, University of Houston's "Big E," was announced at a news conference by Robert Breitbard, Rockets' owner. Terms of the contract were not announced, except that it is a "multiple-year" pact.

However, it is believed the 6-foot-9½ All-American from Rayville, La., received in excess of $100,000 for each of the next four years.

Earlier he had put his price at $300,000. The Houston Mavericks of the American Basketball Association also sought Hayes and offered him $500,000 for a multiple-year pact.

Hayes told newsmen he picked the Rockets over the ABA Mavericks because "I want to play against the greatest ball players and they are in the NBA."

On Monday, the 22-year-old Houston star announced he would join the professional ranks and would not try out for the United States Olympic team.

Breitbard, whose team finished last in its first season of NBA action, said he was "overjoyed with the signing of the greatest collegiate basketball player in the country."

San Diego won the first round NBA draft choice two days ago in a coin flip with the Baltimore Bullets. The regular NBA draft isn't scheduled until May 8 but the coin flip gave the Rockets the right to go after the high scoring Hayes.

The Houston ace averaged 36.9 during the 1967-68 year in which Houston finished the regular season undefeated and ranked the nation's No. 1 team. The Cougars also won the Mid-west NCAA regional but lost to both UCLA and Ohio State last weekend in the championship finals.

Braves' Rico Carty May Be TB Victim

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Atlanta slugger Rico Carty was to be taken to the Southeast Florida Tuberculosis Hospital Wednesday night for extensive examinations to determine if he has tuberculosis.

The Braves said Wednesday morning that the left fielder apparently had tuberculosis, but later in the day Trainer Harvey Stone said Carty's illness may be pneumonia.

"There are some indications that it is TB," Stone said. "But it definitely is not proven. We may not know for another three days."

Stone said he planned to take Carty to the tuberculosis hospital at nearby Latana where additional tests were planned.

Other Atlanta players and team officials were being tested to determine if they had contracted the disease.

"If he's really got it, he's certain to be out for the year," said Paul Richards, vice president of the Braves.

Preliminary medical reports disclosed at a news conference indicated that Carty had tuberculosis, the same disease that once sidelined Braves' infielder Red Schoendienst, now manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Schoendienst found he had TB at the end of the 1958 season. He had a portion of his right lung removed in February of 1959, and returned to the field in 1960. He ended his playing career in 1963.

Carty was having a fine exhibition season at the plate, batting .316, but was given a medical examination after he lost six pounds in camp. He recently had complained of "being weak and just not feeling right."

Carty, 27, has a .305 batting average in three years in the big leagues, although his average slidded to .255 in 1967, when he was bothered by a shoulder injury.

Yarbrough Sets Pace At Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Lee Roy Yarbrough of Columbia, S.C., led a record-shattering assault on the Atlanta International Raceway Wednesday and won the pole position for Sunday's Atlanta 500 with a qualifying time of 155.646 miles an hour.

The 30-year-old racing veteran was one of eight qualifiers topping the old four-lap record of 150.669 on the 1½-mile course.

Yarbrough, who last won the pole position at the 1966 National 500 at Charlotte, drove a 1968 Mercury.

Yarbrough, runnerup at the Daytona 500 earlier in the year, was challenged by David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., for the pole spot in Sunday's $82,000 race.

Pearson, driving a 1968 Ford, won the No. 2 spot with a speed of 155.351. Third was claimed by Charlie Glotzbach of Georgetown, Ind., who drove his 1968 Dodge an average speed of 154.905.

Fourth place went to Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C., who celebrated his 29th birthday by driving his 1968 Mercury to a clocking of 154.890. He also set a one-lap record with a time of 156.471, far above the old mark of 151.133.

Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N.C., driving a 1968 Dodge, was fifth at 154.818. Tiny Lund of Cross, S.C., in a 1968 Mercury, was sixth at 154.521. Donnie Allison of Hueytown, Ala., driving a 1968 Ford, was seventh at 154.351.

Jerry Grant of Modesto, Calif., averaging 154.152 in a 1968 Plymouth, was eighth.

Jeff Notches Sixth Triumph in Gra-Y

Jefferson posted his sixth victory in second half Gra-Y Basketball League competition yesterday by whipping Irvineville by a 34-19 score. Jeff has only one loss on his record.

Pat Hesch led Jeff with 15 points and Don Olson had 11. High for Irvineville was Collins with nine points.

Sam Bair Can't Beat Mean Mutt

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Sam Bair of Kent State University, who won the mile run at six indoor track meets this year, was bitten in the back by a German shepherd dog today while working out near the campus.

Bair, who carries a tear gas gun for such emergencies, said the weapon apparently fell from his belt while he was making his daily 10-mile run.

"The dog was captured and has had all its shots, so I don't have to worry about that, but my back is extremely sore," said Bair after receiving medical attention, including a tetanus shot, at the university medical center.

He has two wounds about 2½ inches long on his back.

to put an unbeaten record on the line against better competition.

Maybe we should have made this the "Top 100."

But, the picture isn't as bad as we've painted it. The satisfaction of working in this profession is much, much greater than the small problems. Working with and for most coaches, athletes and fans is an enjoyable experience.

Our column coming up on the top ten memorable moments will prove it.

If there's any part of the column you don't like, let us know. (That's number eight)

SATYSHUR 2ND TEAM; NO LOCALS NAMED

Wuycik, Robinson Solid Picks on Cage All-State

By JOHN L. TAYLOR
HARRISBURG (AP) — Wilbert Robinson, who led Laurel Highlands to its first PIAA Class A state basketball championship, was named to the Pennsylvania Associated Press All-State Scholastic Basketball Team Wednesday.

The team, picked by sportswriters and broadcasters, also included Dennis Wuycik of Ambridge, a first team selection last year; Paul Hoffman of Hazleton St. Gabriel; Paul Biko of Scranton Cathedral, and Craig Littlepage of Cheltenham.

Erie East star Denny Satyshur was a second team selection. Area cagers receiving an honorable mention were Al Poole of Erie East, Paul Pry of Erie Cathedral Prep and Pat Lukasavich of DuBois.

No Warren County, Section II, Upper Allegheny Valley League or Allegheny Mountain League players were honored.

Wuycik, who helped lead Ambridge to the state championship in 1967, was the top vote-getter, but Robinson was not far behind. Littlepage was the only junior chosen for first team honors.

All but Wuycik competed in post-season playoffs. Robinson scored 31 points to lead Laurel Highlands to a 63-56 championship victory over Cheltenham. Biko had 38, as Cathedral edged St. Basil of Carleek, 77-76, for the PCIAA Class B title.

Wuycik averaged 32.2 points a game in his final season. In one game against Butler, the 6.6 senior scored 50 points. Last year Ambridge landed two players on the first team — a PIAA record with his 31 points in a Class A title game. The mark was established in 1965 by Sim Hill of Midland. Robinson's average for the year was 28.7.

Hoffman, who played varsity basketball for four years, became the state's fourth highest all-time scorer with 2,209 career points. His output was exceeded only by Ron Krick, Larry Miller and Wilt Chamberlain.

Biko, an honor student and president of his senior class, averaged 28.9 points a game. He was a regular for three seasons, the last two of which Cathedral won state titles.

Littlepage averaged 18.1 points a game and was especially effective on defense. Cheltenham's only loss was to Laurel Highlands and that was in overtime.

Atlantic Sponsoring Fish Contest Again

PHILADELPHIA — For the fourth consecutive year, Atlantic Richfield Company will sponsor a "Fish-for-Fun-and-a-Fortune" contest—topped by a $10,000 first prize—for fishermen throughout the state of Pennsylvania. A total of 1,804 prizes worth more than $24,000 in savings bonds and gift certificates will be awarded in the contest, which will run from April 13, opening day of the trout season, through Oct. 31.

In cooperation with Atlantic Richfield, 20,000 fish of various species, bearing specially numbered red plastic tags, will be stocked in ponds, lakes, and streams in every county in the state by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission during its regular 1968 stocking program. Of the 20,000 tagged fish, 1,804 will carry prize-winning tags.

A spokesman explained that it is normal procedure for the Fish Commission each year to tag a number of fish in its state-wide multi-million fish stocking program. Return of the tags provides the commission with valuable information on migration and utilization of the tagged fish.

The contest is not limited to trout. In addition, fish of many species such as bass, walleyes, muskellunge, northern pike, bluegills, crappies and catfish will be tagged. All species will be eligible for prizes as their respective seasons open later in the year. Panfish will be eligible throughout the length of the contest.

The red plastic tags, attached to the dorsal fin of the fish, will bear the legend "Atlantic Richfield Co.," and a plainly visible number.

The 1968 contest will feature top prizes of a $10,000 U.S. savings bond (1st prize) and a $2,000 bond (2nd prize) with two $500 bonds as third and fourth prizes, and 1,800 $5 and $10 Atlantic Richfield gift certificates. It is the largest prize total in the four-year history of the contest.

In the 1967 contest, prizes totalling nearly $20,000 were awarded to 550 lucky fishermen from all parts of the state, including $10,000 top prize, $2,000 second prize, two $1,000 prizes, one $500 prize and 545 $10 gift certificate recipients.

During the four years of the contest, including the current year, prizes totalling nearly $100,000 will have been offered; in the first three years there was a total of 1,588 prize recipients in every county in Pennsylvania.

Contest rules for 1968 will have one important change from previous years, a spokesman said. Anglers catching fish with a red plastic Atlantic Richfield tag will fill out an official registration form and send the form and tag to contest headquarters in Philadelphia.

The registration forms may be picked up at any of the some 4,500 Atlantic Richfield service stations throughout Pennsylvania and in border areas of adjacent Ohio, West Virginia, New York, Maryland and Delaware.

In previous years, winners were required to check lists of prizes posted at the service stations. The 1968 winning numbers have already been drawn by an independent agency. Winners of the four top prizes — $10,000 through $500—will be notified by telephone immediately upon verification of their prizes. The others will be informed by mail.

Every fisherman returning a red tag will receive, as a special gift from Atlantic, an attractive conservation award patch.

Also available to fishermen again this year at Atlantic Richfield stations free of charge are large, four-color fishing maps of Pennsylvania listing 80 top fishing areas of the state. It also gives detailed information on all types of equipment and tackle for anglers.

Atlantic Richfield said that a number of fish bearing tags of the 1965, 1966 and 1967 contests are still outstanding and are expected to be caught, and these tags may be returned for a free gift of a brass and plastic floating tackle box. The 1965, 1966 and 1967 tags bore the legend "The Atlantic Richfield Co.," and a number. Thus, there is something for everyone who returns an Atlantic Richfield or Atlantic Refining Co. tag.

Rec Softballers Meeting Tonight

The Recreational Softball League will meet at 7:30 tonight at Prosen's Barber Shop.

All officers and managers, as well as anyone interested in playing softball this summer, are urged to attend.

Boating Course Set To Start April 8th

A three-session course in pleasure boating, sponsored by the Warren Power Squadron, will start on Monday, April 8. The second and third classes are scheduled for April 15 and April 22. The course will be held in the Warren Area High School cafeteria from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. each evening.

Interested persons are urged to sign up for the course at the local organization's booth at this weekend's Kiwanis Sport and Outdoor Show at WAHS. Registration will also be open at the first class, but Power Squadron officials urge all persons to sign up this weekend.

Included in the course will be instruction on how to choose a boat, rules of the road, equipment requirements, legal responsibility and a number of other subjects.

A personal identification card and certificate will be awarded everyone who successfully completes the course.

The Power Squadron points out that each year approximately 1,500 lives are lost in boating accidents in this country. At least 90 percent of those killed are men. More than 50 percent of all fatalities occur in open boats, largely those with outboard motors.

The U.S. Coast Guard has reported that about two-fifths of the victims died when their boats overturned. Capsizing is attributed to inadequately trained personnel, owners guilty of faulty handling and overloading of boats.

The Power Squadron echoes the Coast Guard's finding that too large a portion of the boating public has too little knowledge of boating safety.

Rocky Colavito Changes Mind About Retiring

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Veteran outfielder Rocky Colavito, apparently abandoning thoughts of early retirement, said Wednesday he will report to the Los Angeles Dodgers on Sunday in Arizona.

That was reported by Dodger general manager E. J. "Buzzie" Bavasi after a telephone conversation with Colavito.

The 34-year-old slugger was purchased by Los Angeles Tuesday from the Chicago White Sox for a reported $25,000.

Colavito, who has seen service with four American League clubs, told Bob Hunter of the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner the transaction had upset his plans but he thought he would be able to readjust.

Los Angeles plans to use Rocky as a pinch hitter and spot player. In purchasing him, the National League club also assumed his salary for 1968.

Pipers Rip Pacers, Gain ABA's Finals

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Art Heyman's hot shooting sparked a 48-point third quarter that carried the Pittsburgh Pipers to a 133-114 victory over the Indiana Pacers Wednesday night in an American Basketball Association playoff.

The victory gave Pittsburgh the best-of-five Eastern Division semifinal series 3-0.

Heyman, who scored 28 points, got 18 in the third quarter when the Pipers widened their margin by 22 points.

Heyman's performance was backed by Connie Hawkins, who scored 29 and Charlie Williams, who tossed in 34 points.

Pittsburgh decided the game within three minutes of the third quarter when it started a scoring spurge at 9:19 that opened its margin to 11 points. Indiana led 56-55 at the half.

In the third quarter Heyman, Williams, and Hawkins were Pittsburgh's big guns as the Pipers finished the period with a 20-point lead at 103-83. Hawkins scored eight points and gave Pittsburgh control of the boards with his rebounding while Williams, Pittsburgh's ace playmaker, contributed 12 points.

The game was a see-saw battle in the first half as the lead changed hands and was tied many times before Pittsburgh took control in the third quarter. Arvesta Kelly capped Pittsburgh's victory by scoring seven points in the last 30 seconds, one a three-point goal from 50 feet away with one second left.

Fred Lewis, who scored 15 of Indiana's 26 points in the first quarter, scored 32 for the Pacers.

Phils Have Yet Another Allen in Training Camp

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP State Sports Editor
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Rehearsals of 10 days in the Florida sun. There's another Allen in the Philadelphia Phillies' training camp, Ron Allen, 24, brother of the famous Rich, showed manager Gene Mauch some promise at first base. Ron says it sometimes is tough because people compare him to Rich. "People expect me to be the same kind of hitter or even better, and because I'm bigger, they think I should hit harder," said Ron, a witch hitter. A physical education major, he split the off-season by going to Youngstown University and working as a draftsman for the city of Youngstown. "I promised my brothers, Rich and Hank, I'd complete my education if they let me play pro ball, said the youngest of the baseball playing Allens. . . ."

himself with the base on balls or poor fielding. He needs only experience and a constant reminder of how good he is," said Mauch. . . .

courtesy, because he has done it for so long, wouldn't take away something that is part of him. "They know I'm not going to run them out of an inning."

BATTY INCIDENT — Mike Ryan, the Phillies new catcher obtained from the Red Sox, borrowed a bat from first baseman Bill White and liked it, so White, using a new stick this year, gave Mike a whole box of them. Ryan incidentally, was married after last fall's World Series and he brought his bride to camp. Ryan hated to leave the Red Sox since he lives only 30 miles from Fenway Park and it was a boyhood ambition to play for the American League club. . . . Maury Wills says baseball can be reduced to mental outlook. "Most major leaguers," he says "can run, throw, hit and field, so what makes one different from another—mental approach. It's all psychological. . . ."

BY ACCIDENT — The Phillies' Tony Gonzalez, who finished second to Robert Clemente in the National League Batting race in 1967, says, "People hit more home runs by accident than on purpose. Nobody knows when he is going to hit a home run. . . . The Phillies' Tony Taylor, who hit .340 in winter ball, says the general manager is not interested in what he hits in winter, only summer. They don't want to hear .340. . . . For the record, the disease suffered by rookie outfielder Larry Hise of the Phillies is Spondylethsis. . . . Rick Wise and bride have bought property in the Stroudsburg area for a vacation home. Mrs Wise comes from Stroudsburg. . . .

AFTER THEY'RE GONE — Bob Veale, Pittsburgh pitcher, says deposed manager Harry Walker wanted to win "as much if not more than any man I ever played with or for in baseball. It was obvious he knew baseball as well if not better than any man. He was a misunderstood person". . . . Gary Kolb, Pirates' utility catcher, played every position for the Columbus Jets in the last game of the 1967 season. . . . Phillies' manager Mauch says of left hander Woody Fryman, "He's a little quicker than I realized. He and pitching coach Al Widmar got together on a changeup that I know is going to make him a better pitcher. . . ."

SPRING TRAINING NECES. SARY—Wills says there is more to spring training than meets the eye: "Some say two or three weeks would be enough. Not for me. I need every bit of it. Even young players need it." Wills also said former Pittsburgh Manager Walker told him the Pirates started to fall off after Maury was hit by San Francisco pitcher Ray Sadecki. "I don't know if he was psyching me, but that's what he said. . . . The Pittsburgh third baseman said also he felt his managers allow him to run on his own now out of

GOOD DEAL — Cookie Rojas, the Phillies' jack of all positions, tells how he got his chance to make good after being dealt to the Phils by Cincinnati. Explained Rojas, "I told coach George Myatt, who lived in the same building, the only thing I wanted was a chance to prove I can do the job. I might not be a .300 hitter but I felt I could hit well enough to help the ball club." Rojas also paid tribute to pitcher Jim Bunning: "I got to say playing behind Bunning was the greatest feeling I ever had as a ballplayer. I was shocked when we traded him. . . ."

Chamber Orchestra Concert Scheduled

The Warren Concert Association, which earlier this month announced the appearance of the Norman Luboff Choir on next year's series, has also scheduled the Princeton Chamber Orchestra as one of the other attractions, according to Harry Summers, president.

The music director of the Princeton Orchestra is Nicholas Harsanyi, who is also conductor of the world-renowned Bach Aria Group and the Philadelphia Chamber Orchestra.

The soloist with the orchestra will be soprano Janice Harsanyi, wife of the conductor, widely sought as a concert singer and known to many in Warren for her recital here at the First Presbyterian Church several years ago.

Members of the current concert series are now renewing their memberships by mail in advance of the public campaign which starts on April 17 under the chairmanship of Mrs. Robert Sokolski.

"The response to our mail appeal has been excellent," Mrs. Sokolski said, "but we are hopeful that all members will send their renewals during the next week and thus reduce the work load for the volunteers in April."

Four concerts will be presented in 1968-69 but the other two artists will not be selected until the close of the membership drive and their choice will depend on the total membership. This past season was a complete sellout.

"One of the reasons why the association could present such a fine series this past year was the extra support from those who subscribed to patron memberships," Mr. Summers said. "We look forward to an equally good response during this campaign."

After the first New York city concert of the Princeton Chamber orchestra in 1965, conductor Eugene Ormandy said, "This is one of the finest orchestras of its kind anywhere."

The orchestra made its debut under the direction of Harsanyi in 1964. It is comprised of twenty string players with a repertoire spanning a wide range which includes baroque, the classical, the romantic and contemporary literature.

In its short life, the Princeton Orchestra has made four recordings for Decca records and their latest features Janice Harsanyi as soloist. Since her debut with Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra, Mrs. Harsanyi has been acclaimed unanimously as "the

Self-Service Liquor Sales Get State OK

HARRISBURG (AP) — A pilot program offering both self-service and regular counter sales to Pennsylvania liquor customers has been approved, the State Liquor Control Board said Wednesday.

Chairman William Z. Scott said the board agreed to the experimental plan to determine whether the combination operation would be as successful in Pennsylvania as it has been in other states.

"The states that have put self-service operations into effect have raved about the results," Scott said.

There was no date set for the pilot test to be instituted since it first will require that 10 additional stores be built with more floor space than contained in the existing 705 outlets.

Frank Rutter, director of the Bureau of State Stores, said the contemplated self-service displays would require an additional 1,500-to-2,000 square feet of floor space. Existing stores cover approximately 3,000 square feet.

Says Teachers Won't Accept Cuts in Pay Bill

HARRISBURG (AP) — The president of the Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA) said Wednesday the state's public school teachers would not accept Senate attempts to trim $18 million from a salary bill.

The president, Joseph Standa of Johnstown, said he would call a special meeting of the PSEA's Legislative Committee on Friday to consider a "resolution that could have a major bearing on the PSEA's future course of action."

"I cannot discuss the contents of the resolution at this time," Standa said, "but it will be a major development."

Pa. AFL-CIO Endorses 4 of 5 ConCon Proposals

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania AFL-CIO Wednesday endorsed four of the five proposals set before the voters in the April 23 primary election by the Constitutional Convention.

The labor organization endorsed questions dealing with legislative apportionment, state finances, local government and judiciary.

It urged, however, a negative vote on Question 3, the taxation article, because of its provision regarding public utilities.

President Harry Boyer said in a statement:

"We urge a no vote because it shifts revenues intended for general state operating purposes back to local communities — rather than permit local real estate taxation on public utilities. Such diversion of general funds should not occur."

As the proposal pertains to public utilities, it would require the General Assembly to return a portion of the gross receipts tax to all local governments in lieu of real estate taxes on operating facilities — which are now exempt from such taxation.

Boyer said additional taxes would have to be enacted to make up for the loss of revenue returned to the local governments and he feared they would come in the form of consumer levies.

He said the other four proposals represent substantial improvements to the constitution.

The object of the PSEA's ire is a heavily amended bill, released by the Senate Education Committee Tuesday night, that would provide about $35 million for higher teachers' salaries in the 1968-69 school year.

The original bill, passed by the House two weeks ago, would have provided about $53 million to give the state's 103,000 public school teachers and administrators a $500 across-the-board pay hike in 1968-69.

Although the PSEA was not completely satisfied with the House measure, Standa had said it would have been "an adequate stopgap bill."

"But the salary bill, as it stands right now, is totally inadequate," Standa said.

In its present form, the bill would give all local school districts a 6 per cent increase in state subsidies, with the districts to decide for themselves how the additional money should be distributed to teachers.

Moreover, the bill would raise the statewide minimum starting salary for teachers from $4,500 to $5,400 for the 1968-69 school year.

Other provisions of the bill would raise the minimum starting salary to $6,000 and boost the subsidy base for local school districts from $400 to $550 per pupil, but not until new revenue programs have been adopted to cover the cost.

No definite date was set for the increase of the minimum salary to $6,000 or the hike in state subsidy payments, nor was the total cost of these increases estimated.

The Senate also deleted from the bill a provision that would have provided pay increases for county and district school superintendents.

The bill will be in position for a final vote when the Senate returns at 3 p. m. Monday. Both Democrats and Republicans, however, have agreed that amendments can be offered from the floor at that time.

Have Guns, Will Travel

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Today's Special: A complete 10-man police department all well trained and schooled at the Pennsylvania State Police and FBI academies.

the department's bargaining committee. The township commissioners offered a $25 a month raise in present salaries of $4,800 to $5,700 a year. Felt says he and his fellow cops want $100 a month.

But they don't come cheap. It's because they don't like the pay they're getting now that the 10 men in the Robinson Township police force took out a newspaper classified advertisement Wednesday.

Patrolman James Felt, an eight year veteran, is head of

So they took out a "Police Department For Hire" ad. "Inquire Robinson Township Police Department, Allegheny County," it says. "Have gun will travel." "I'll go to Timbuktu, if I have to," said Felt, father of four. "We're not kidding about this."

American Universities Face New Era of Involvement

PITTSBURGH (AP) — University of Pittsburgh Chancellor Wesley W. Posvar said Wednesday that American universities are verging on a new era of public involvement.

The university, Posvar said, will assume dramatic importance in playing "a role that will relate to a fundamental transformation of the human condition in this country during the next 30 years."

The chancellor said Pitt intends to meet public educational needs by increasing the school's overall physical capacity and enrollment by up to 50 per cent during the next dozen years.

Posvar said the percentage of graduate students at the University will steadily increase in keeping with state goals.

The University, he said, will soon create a new office of assistant provost for experimental programs to develop innovations in curricula and teaching techniques.

In addition, he said Pitt will install in the next two or three years a complete management information system to coordinate planning, programming and budgeting.

Posvar briefly outlined plans for the University before 1,900 persons in an inaugural ceremony. He became Pitt's 15th chancellor in a ceremony that had all the flavor of a medieval pageant.

In the audience were more than 200 representatives from American and foreign educational institutions, many wearing brightly colored hoods over their black gowns.

Delegates included scholars from as far away as Scotland, Guatemala, Ecuador, Lebanon, Stockholm, Japan and Indonesia.

The 42-year-old former Air Force Colonel was invested as chancellor by William H. Rea, chairman of the University's board of trustees.

Posvar, who assumed his post last June 1, said the prestige and financial rewards of research contracts "must not overshadow the educational needs of students."

He called for a closing of the "generation gap" within the University.

"I believe that the so-called generation gap is not a maturity gap," Posvar said. "Young people perceive that they have a greater stake in the future than their elders. Perhaps they understand better than their elders that the future is likely to involve drastic changes."

While students lack experience, Posvar said, "they know more about their own wants and needs."

He said Pitt hopes to establish some type of houses or colleges with improved living and learning arrangements for students so they "can live and learn together without a loss of identity." He said the University was somewhat hindered in that it did not have "large tracts of land that California uses for its new campuses."

The chancellor said availability of resources for research in the physical sciences and humanities has been neglected. In order to rectify this, he said Pitt is establishing a small fund to aid these areas.

Posvar confirmed honorary degrees in behalf of the University on four men who had influenced his career.

Area GOP 'Gear Up' For Elections

Area Republicans will be going back to the classroom for some basic "gearing up" for the November elections, local party officials announced today. Republicans from the 23rd Congressional District, which includes Clearfield, Centre, Clinton, Cameron, Potter, McKean, Elk, Forest, Warren and Venango counties, will gather for the "action seminar" in basic politics today, March 28, 1968, at the Sacred Heart Grade School, St. Marys, Pennsylvania. The seminar will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Republican State Chairman, John C. Jordan, who announced that similar political workshops were being held across the Commonwealth, said, "Our purpose is to stimulate, motivate and nourish the spirit of the anticipated Republican victory which is growing all across the state and the nation."

"We become more and more confident that Republicans will score a landslide national victory in November and we want our party workers, committee people and candidates to share our enthusiasm. We plan to give them some basic ideas on how best to make this victory a reality this fall."

The Republican State Committee, in conjunction with the National Committee, will present several panelists who will discuss such topics as women in politics, political public relations, labor and politics, precinct organization, Pennsylvania's recent Constitutional Convention and the accomplishments of the present administration.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a married woman with an infant son. My husband (age 30) has a habit that turns my stomach. Every time he sees his father (which is about once a week) they kiss each other hello.

Don't you feel a handshake or a slap on the back makes more sense? To be kissing one's father at age 30 seems very peculiar to me.

My husband knows I am writing this letter, in fact he will read it before it goes into the envelope. We both want your opinion.

--- NAUSEATED NANCY

Dear Nauseated: Kissing parents is strictly a matter of family training. I see nothing peculiar about a grown man greeting his father in this manner. Instead of being nauseated, Nancy, be thankful that your husband and his dad enjoy a warm relationship—it will help your husband have a better relationship with his own son. Today the generation gap in a good many families makes the Grand Canyon look like a small ditch.

Dear Ann Landers: Last week my boyfriend put a cigar band around my finger and said, "We're engaged." It seemed romantic at the time but now I fear that romantic gesture may be a symbol of what our life together will be—never enough money for the real thing. Always substitutes.

Rickey is warm-hearted, attractive, fun to be with, but moody. He's a loner and a drifter. He drinks more than he should and I'm sure this is the main reason he can't hold a job. Rickey's parents have been divorced for 10 years. His mother collects alimony and has a good-paying job. He can always get money from her. Frequently she'll stay home from work so she can nurse his hangover and fix him a big breakfast.

Last night when I heard Rick ask his mother for $3 to buy gas I got a little sick to my stomach. He says if I will marry him he won't have to drink, that he'll be able to stay on a job and make a go of things. Yes or no? --- JESSICA

Dear Jess: Don't expect a little ceremony to transform an immature, irresponsible kid into a solid, productive adult. Rickey's mother has kept her sonny boy weak and dependent because she needed to be needed. Methinks he sees in you a girl just like the girl who married dear old dad.

Say no unless you want to carry this emotional cripple on your back for the rest of your days.

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to the groom who was mad at his wife because she was too dumb to follow the instructions on a box of macaroni?

A building in Chicago now rests on a cornerstone made out of my grandmother's first fruitcake. A workman saw the cake on the back steps, thought it was a brick and in it went. Grandma saw him pick it up but she was too ashamed to speak. Every good cook has a story or two to tell about an early flop. What's yours, Ann? --- R.D. 2

Dear R.D.: When I was a bride I didn't know rice swelled. I ended up with enough rice to feed everybody in Hong Kong.

The bidding:
 North East South West
 1♥ Pass 2NT Pass
 3NT Pass Pass Pass
 Opening lead: Jack of ♣

When North heard South respond with two no trump to the opening one heart bid, he knew the partnership had the assets for a slam. South has announced at least 13 high card points and North has 20 which assures a minimum of 33. He, therefore, proceeded without further ado to six no trump.

West opened the jack of clubs and the ace was played from dummy. With an even division in hearts, South has 12 tricks — three spades, five hearts, one diamond, and three clubs. However, when the ace and king of hearts were cashed and West showed out, declarer's total of winners were reduced to 10.

Inasmuch as East was marked with a double stopper in hearts, South switched his attention to diamonds. He led the four of diamonds and finessed the queen from his hand. When West won the trick with the king, South's defeat became assured.

Declarer won the club return in his hand and led a small diamond out to the ten. East was in with the jack and exited with a spade. Declarer played the ace and cashed the ace of diamonds. When the suit split evenly, he was able to claim the balance for a one trick setback.

Declarer's conviction that the success of his contract hinged entirely on a successful diamond finesse plus a three-three division in the suit was not quite accurate. The presence of the ten in dummy and the eight in his hand, offered him an additional chance that could be attempted without risk.

It is suggested that South lead the ten of diamonds at trick four with the intention of passing that card into the West hand if it is not covered. Inasmuch as one trick in the suit must be surrendered regardless of the distribution, the finesse of the queen can be conveniently deferred for one round.

When the ten of diamonds is led, East is obliged to play the jack to protect his partner's holding in the suit. South covers with the queen and West is in with the king. When diamonds are led the next time, East follows with the five and declarer plays the eight which holds the trick. The ace now picks up the remaining diamonds and South has his 12 tricks.

If the East-West diamond holdings were reversed, declarer would still succeed. The ten of diamonds would lose to the jack, but on the following lead South can successfully finesse the queen and then pick up the king with the ace.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars FOR THURSDAY, MARCH 28, 1968.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—You can accomplish more on this day than you may think. All situations and problems need not be as difficult as they appear on the surface; keep plugging.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Don't anticipate failure, neither look for sudden success. A conscientious program and an optimistic attitude will help you surmount difficulties, irksome tasks. You may gain by that "one more try."

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Especially favored now: Outdoor pursuits, transportation, agriculture, engineering, reconstruction, bargaining. But a steady hand and head will be needed.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Planetary influences stimulate intellectual pursuits, eagerness and carefully directed ambitions. If impulsive or hurried, day won't please. Think constructively and avoid errors.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Born before July 30: Take more care in the romance and domestic departments. All Lectures: Put thought before talk, and walk before you run if you would stay out of traps.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Good Mercury influences. Accomplish as much as you can while time and opportunity are here. You will be glad later. Don't mind obstacles; they are normal, and challenge your abilities.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Follow the basic formula—facts, the further learning that MUST be acquired for right solutions. No matter what your position, you CAN go UP, and there are smart maneuvers you can begin NOW.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—This should be a day for stepping back to view your projects and methods with an eye toward revitalizing, even if only in small part. Remain poised, undismayed, ready for bigger and better opportunities.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Negative factors need not disturb if you keep situations in hand and study the "whys," then take measures as you go along. Do not let things go until the last minute.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Especially favored now: Educational pursuits, travel, research. Achievement is possible in out-of-the-ordinary ways and places.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—If conscientious and cooperating with the right sources, you should enjoy better-than-everyday credits. Understanding, better deals shaping up.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—A splendid Neptune aspect stimulates artistry and encourages new tries at enterprises which may have failed before but still have potential.

YOU BORN TODAY are a quick thinker and equally quick in acting, but can get into "hot water" this way if not careful. You like doing things with cheerful people; travel stimulates your intellect. Your business acumen and bright attitude are outstanding; also your fearlessness and enduring energy. Birth date of: Herbert Lehmann, American statesman.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

SHARKS VS. AUTOS

SHARKS evoke terror and rightly so, because they can cripple or kill. Moray eels can inflict severe bites, and the Portuguese man-of-war with 60-foot long tentacles is one of the most dangerous of all aquatic creatures. Other forms of marine life also are capable of stinging or puncturing the flesh with spines.

According to an article in Sea Frontiers, "the dangers of the sea are in reality less than those of the land." The average person never will encounter these potentially dangerous denizens of the deep but those who do are likely to find them less fearsome than many plants, snakes, rats, and insects that scratch, bite and plague man with disease.

Man fears the unknown. His vivid imagination is aided and abetted by tall tales of giant squids, savage sharks, and slashing barracuda. Being trapped in the arms of an octopus is a favorite theme for TV or science-fiction thrillers. A shark attack on man makes headlines. Meanwhile, little is said about the thousands of highway fatalities that occur every year.

There is a growing tendency to explore the depths of the sea. Accidents are bound to happen unless divers use common sense and utilize factual knowledge of marine life. The diver should keep in good physical condition, use proper equipment, and follow the rules of safety. Always swim with a buddy; daredevil antics are out.

It is not always possible for divers to avoid potentially dangerous animals. When a shark enters the scene, the diver should not panic or annoy the fish. It is safer to leave the area quietly by staying close to the bottom and using slow, rhythmic strokes.

A diver is likely to be his own worst enemy, especially when a barracuda comes within two feet. He may forget that nearly all barracuda attacks on man have been provoked. To prove this, only three deaths have been documented.

TOMORROW: Restrictions When Needed.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

ROLLER SKATING AT 35

R. E. R. writes: Five years ago, at age 35, I took up roller skating. This practice has continued and I skate about 16 hours a week. I feel better than I ever did in my life but wonder if this form of exercise is too strenuous for me, now that I'm 40.

REPLY

Keep roller skating, unless the activity leads to excessive fatigue.

CATARACT SURGERY AT 90

E. P. writes: My doctors tell me a cataract is forming in my eye. I am 90 years old and wonder if it would be advisable to have surgery now or to wait. When is the proper time for this procedure?

REPLY

Surgery is needed when practical vision is lost. See your ophthalmologist regularly for instructions on this ailment.

WORKS IN DUSTY AREA

E. G. writes: My girl friend works in a very dusty department. Lately she seems to be breathing very heavily. Would a chest X-ray be in order?

REPLY

Yes, but she should have a thorax examination before this is done. Inhaling dust usually leads to coughing, sneezing, or wheezing.

QUINIDINE FOR HEART

G. W. writes: What is quinidine and how important is it for my heart?

REPLY

Quinidine is used to lessen the irritability of the heart, especially when the beat is irregular.

Viet Cong Defector Surgeon Tells of Hospital System

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SAIGON — A North Vietnamese combat surgeon who defected to the allies told Wednesday of a North Vietnamese army hospital system in Cambodia that serves soldiers fighting in the central highlands of South Vietnam.

During an interview at a government center for defectors, the surgeon, La Vinh Can, marked the location of five hospitals on a simple sketched map.

He placed an "X" midway between Kontum and Pleiku and six miles west of the Cambodia-South Vietnam border to locate the largest hospital in the B-3 front, the North Vietnamese headquarters for the highlands. "This is hospital 84," he said through an interpreter. "It is a fixed hospital installation operating in the jungle, complete with beds and underground shelters. Its reception ward is large with over 3,000 beds.

On a North-South axis two and a half miles west of the border he drew in four other hospitals about five miles apart. He said these installations had about 1,000 beds each and were called "middlefield" hospitals.

The two central hospitals in this line, Can said, were broken into smaller, mobile units late last summer, but like his own 33-man surgical team, they remained based in Cambodia and always returned there after accompanying combat troops on sorties into South Vietnam.

Can who is 31 years old and a 1962 graduate of the Hanoi Medical College, said there were usually 1,500 to 2,000 patients in Hospital 84.

"After each military action," he said, "the number of wounded would increase considerably."

Can said his unit was often used to reinforce a mobile hospital attached to a combat division, there were three doctors on the team and three in the hospital, but the hospital staff was double that of the team, he said.

Although the field medical facilities were usually only three or four miles from the scene of the fighting, Can said, it might take one and a half to two days for stretcher bearers to make the trip through the heavy jungles.

"Because of continual hostile air actions the evacuation of wounded from battlefields has been a very difficult problem," he continued. "Consequently a large number of wounded soldiers die due to delayed evacuation."

Can said that each division usually had a transportation battalion whose members carried supplies and served as stretcher bearers.

He said that in large actions such as the one around Dako last November, when in one two-hour period 173 patients were brought in, only those in critical condition were operated on.

"In the surgical unit where I served there were patients who died due to a lack of medicine or blood for transfusion," he said. "Of 500 wounded soldiers, eight or nine would die due to such shortages."

Can said that most of the medicine he used has been produced in Communist China and the Soviet Union, and some came from France. He said that vitamins came from Hanoi.

Can said that while in South Vietnam his unit moved every five to 14 days.

"Upon being relocated ... our unit first of all must dig underground shelters," he said, "because everything was performed underground. Sometimes as we finished the preparations to receive the wounded we had to relocate again due to the combat conditions. All the preparations had to be repeated again, such as setting up laboratories, operation rooms. Sometimes no sooner had we arrived than wounded began pouring in. In the present war air actions usually inflict considerable casualties to the troops."

Can answered questions freely. He said he had reluctantly entered the North Vietnamese Army six years ago and for some time had disagreed with his country's politics.

Troopers Forcibly Remove 75 Screaming Demonstrators

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Some 50 state troopers forcibly removed about 75 fighting, screaming demonstrators from Delaware's Legislative Hall Wednesday.

The predominantly Negro crowd started fighting the troopers when the policemen started removing them from the building about 15 minutes after the 5 p.m. closing time.

More than 100 persons had invaded the capitol, vowing to stay until the legislature approved a $249,000 supplemental appropriation for welfare grants.

The measure was introduced in the House, and action was expected on it Thursday.

The demonstrators rebuffed

Controversy Grows Hot Over Fire Fighting Policies

HIGH RIDGE, Mo. (AP) — Brush fires and controversy over volunteer fire fighting policies raged with equal heat in and around High Ridge Wednesday.

But firemen shrugged off the controversy and plunged into controlling a brush fire that burned a six-mile-long swath across timbered hills.

Only hours before the High Ridge volunteer firemen were surrounded by an angry crowd and forced to extinguish a fire in a home just six doors from the site of a house that was permitted to burn to the ground March 18. Neither owner had purchased a $7 fire protection tag.

In between the March 18 fire in the John Akers home and Tuesday night's blaze at the Phillip Rush house, the same firemen extinguished a blaze at an untagged house because a mother and child were in danger.

High Ridge and surrounding communities, about 20 miles southwest of St. Louis, depend upon volunteer firemen for protection. The High Ridge department, and others like it, depend for maintenance and operation of their equipment on the sale of fire tags.

There are nearly as many opinions in Jefferson County as there are people but most sentiment seems to favor the firemen.

"They're getting a raw deal all around," said one unhappy law enforcement officer who tried to hold off the angry crowd Tuesday night. Mrs. Owen Lober pointed to her fire protection tag and said: "It's a terrible thing to let a person's home burn down," but she added "I feel everybody should have one (tag)."

A few doors up the street, a woman who wished to remain unidentified said her family has not bought a fire tag and will not buy one.

"We see it as a moral issue," she said. "They just stood around at the Akers fire. They didn't even go in to help the people like we all did."

Fire Chief Julius Petry explained that if the department fights fires in untagged homes, there will be no incentive for others to buy tags and no money

ONE UFO EXPLAINED
CASTLE ROCK, Colo. (AP) — There was no question it was a strange flying object, a number of Castle Rock residents averred after looking at the night sky. One man said it was at least 50 feet long with flashing lights.

Then a mother in the foothills community cleared up this UFO mystery. Her two sons fastened thin wood sticks to a plastic bag and lighted four birthday cake candles fastened to an aluminum cup in the center. Hot air from the lighted candles caused the small balloon to rise and float away.

for operations. But he said anytime a life is in danger, the firemen act.

A.P. Kern, who lives just across the street from Akers, is a professional fireman in Olathe, Mo.

"I can see the firemen's point of view," Kern said. "But as a professional fireman and a man I couldn't stand by and see a man's home burn to the ground."

Arthur J. Wilde, one of the co-founders of the department in 1923, said originally residents were asked to pay $25 after a fire was extinguished. He said the first man paid and the next two did not, so the tag system came about.

50 Pints of Blood Weekly Needed to Keep Child Alive

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Five-year-old Sally Harrington, suffering from an often-fatal blood disease, has been kept alive for six months with 600 pints of blood. If the transfusions—up to 50 pints a week—can be kept up, her doctors think she may be cured.

The dark-haired, blue-eyed Sally lives in danger around the clock and has been confined to a padded bed since last September at St. Joseph's Hospital in this Detroit suburb.

Her mother, Mrs. Emmanuel Harrington, says it takes 50 pints of blood a week to keep Sally "full of pep and looking like nothing was wrong with her."

Her need for blood has prompted several hundred people in the Detroit and Pontiac area to donate for her.

She has aplastic anemia, a leukemia-like disease, in which the bone marrow fails to produce necessary blood components. Her mother says few ever have survived it as long as Sally.

Also making an interclub visit were six Kiwanians from the Warren Club.

Dinner was served by the North Warren Boy Scout Troop. Youngsville Kiwanis Club meets next Tuesday at its home meeting place, Edgewood Court Motel.

The sand, gravel and crushed stone needed for the interstate highway system would girdle the earth with a wall 50 feet wide and nine feet high.

But there is hope now. "If she can just stay in there long enough, they know for sure they can cure her," said the mother, wife of a General Motors foreman.

Recent bone marrow tests, Mrs. Harrington says, indicate Sally's marrow is beginning once again to produce both red and white corpuscles, and equally important, that the marrow's platelets-making mechanism may start working again. Platelets cause the blood to clot. Without them a minor cut could cause a hemorrhage and death. The goal is to keep Sally alive until she once again makes her own platelets.

Sally must stay in her padded bed to avoid being bruised or cut and must avoid activity, which burns up platelets.

Although doctors say Sally isn't yet producing enough red or white blood cells, her mother says the chance of bleeding is, to her, the big threat.

Only a nosebleed caused a scare last week.

Sugar Grove Child, 5, Hospitalized

A five-year-old Sugar Grove area boy was admitted to Warren General Hospital Wednesday morning for injuries he suffered when he was struck by a car at 8:05 a.m. on Route 987 just east of Lander.

State police trooper William C. Dudnick, who investigated, said Richard E. Critzer, 5, RDS, Sugar Grove, sustained multiple contusions and lacerations and a fractured left arm in the mishap.

Police said a car operated by Howard W. Vanord, 31, RDS,

Russell, traveling east, slowed down when the driver saw the boy along the road. As the car reached the boy, according to police, young Critzer ran out in front of the car. Trooper Joseph J. Azzato investigated an accident on Route 27, one-half mile north of Youngsville at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Police stated a tractor-trailer driven by Dennis Newhouse, 27, RDS, Clarion, traveling north, struck the rear end of a Ford truck operated by Robert D. Trubie, 38, of 206 Frank st., Warren as the latter was stopped to deliver ice cream.

Damage to the Ford was estimated at $40, no damage to the rig. Heavy fog in the area contributed to the mishap.

Israel Steeling Itself For Backlash Attack

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel is steeling itself for an all-out offensive by Arab guerrillas in an apparent backlash from the massive assault on their bases in Jordan last week. Officials here seem in no mood to take any more raids without hitting back.

Top-level discussions are believed to be already under way to plan how to meet any threat. Sources predict action may reach its peak around Israel's independence day May 2.

Although any large-scale action similar to the massive assault against guerrilla bases in Jordan last Thursday could plunge the Middle East into another war, such action is considered unlikely at present. It has not been entirely ruled out, however.

The guerrillas, though mauled in the attack last week on their bases at Karameh and Safa, are raiding and firing mortars at settlements again to show the Arab world they have not been crushed.

The Jordan border, especially along the exposed Beisan Valley, has flared daily since the operation.

Sources here said one possibility is the formation of small Israeli commando units to meet the guerrillas at their own game, trying to hit them in their bases and curb their attacks. Similar tactics were used by the semisecret 101st Battalion 12 years ago against Egyptian commandos.

According to the best available information, Israel is unlikely to endanger its diplomatic campaign at this time with another "police action" invasion of Jordan.

It still supports the flagging peace mission of U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring, but some circles here hold out little hope it will achieve any progress in breaking the Middle East dead lock.

Some legislators have questioned why the government limited last week's strike to the guerrilla bases and held the assault force back from deeper penetration into Jordan in a punishing show of force.

Intelligence reports indicate the build-up of guerrilla groups, which last Thursday's raid was aimed at smashing, is continuing at a fast pace as young Arabs clamor to join them.

Reports from Amman, Jordan's capital, indicate the guerrillas now control most of the east bank of the Jordan River, the springboard for their attacks.

Sen. McCarthy Makes Fund-Raising Appearance

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, dropping into Chicago to raise some money for his campaign, told business men Wednesday that if the Vietnam war continues to escalate the nation will have to plan for credit, price and wage controls.

The Minnesota Democrat took part of the day off from campaigning in Wisconsin for his April 2 primary challenge of President Johnson. He made a fund-raising appearance and a speech in Chicago — and talked by telephone with Mayor Richard J. Daley, a supporter of Johnson.

At a news conference McCarthy fielded questions about a mini-revolt in his "children's crusade."

Asked about the resignation of his campaign press secretary, Seymour Hersh, 30, and Hersh's assistant, Mary Lou Oates, 23, McCarthy said: "I don't look upon this as a serious loss to my campaign... We'll survive."

Hersh is a free lance writer and a former reporter for The Associated Press in Chicago and Washington. Miss Oates was a newswoman for United Press International in New York.

Their duties were taken over Wednesday by Paul Gorman, 38, who had been a speech writer for the campaign.

McCarthy spoke before businessmen at the Paper Board Packaging Council.

McCarthy, a member of the Senate Finance Committee, said if the cost of war rises to $50 billion a year the nation would have to be prepared to move toward some kind of wartime controls — and not the surtax now proposed by the Johnson administration.

He said some action would have to be considered on credit controls and on wage and price controls.

McCarthy acknowledged to newsmen later that he had talked by telephone to Mayor Daley, a powerful influence in party politics who has maintained that he will support re-nomination of Johnson at the convention in August.

McCarthy declined to say that without Daley's help he would have trouble winning the nomination for himself. "I'd be glad to have his support," McCarthy said.

In discussing the resignations of Hersh and Miss Oates, McCarthy said "it had nothing to do with the so-called civil rights issue."

It was reported from other sources that the two press aides had been concerned that McCarthy was not pressing his candidacy harder among Negroes in Wisconsin.

McCarthy, however, said that he had known that after a rather free and easy campaign discipline in New Hampshire a "more disciplined campaign would have to be run."

Policeman Kills Holdup Man In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A policeman shot and killed a man who was holding up the National City Bank's branch office at East 107th Street and Euclid Avenue Wednesday.

The holdup man was identified by police as Tony Phillips of Cleveland.

A police ambulance driver, Robert Phillips, said he entered the bank and shouted for everyone to hit the floor. Then he spotted the holdup man holding a pistol to the throat of Donald B. Scullin, 24, of Euclid, assistant bank manager.

Phillips said the bandit said, "Clear the deck or I'll kill this man."

Phillips said he fired one shot, hitting the holdup man.

DOCTORS FOR VIETNAM
CHICAGO (AP) — Volunteer Physicians for Vietnam, a program administered by the American Medical Association, seeks to attract more physicians to participate in the effort.

Since the project was started 2½ years ago, 361 physicians have gone to South Vietnam to work in civilian provincial hospitals.

Sixteen volunteers have served a second two-month tour, and five former volunteers have returned to Vietnam for long-term service tours of at least one year.

Charles H. Moseley, director of AMA's program, said at least 300 volunteers are needed in 1968.

Volunteers receive free transportation, housing, an allowance of $10 a day while in Vietnam, and each is covered by a $50,000 insurance policy.

Pennsylvania Happenings

By LEE LINDER

Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ever wonder who buys the most whiskey, wines and liquors in the World? It's the Pennsylvania State Liquor Control Board.

With annual sales now approaching $400 million, liquor profits now comprise about one-fifth of the state's total budget of $2.1 billion. Only the sales tax brings in more revenue to the Commonwealth treasury.

The Liquor Control Commission operates 703 stores and constantly is looking for more money-making outlets.

Gov. Raymond Shafer recently appointed a Liquor Code Advisory Committee to investigate all phases of the state's alcoholic monopoly and propose any needed reforms.

Perhaps — abolishment of the state store system? Or, catering to the teetotaler, make liquor purchases more difficult so increased drinking — and it is on the rise — can be discouraged.

William Z. Scott, chairman of the four-man Liquor Control Board, doesn't believe Pennsylvania is going to quit the alcoholic beverage business — mainly because it makes the state cash register ring.

"It used to be that control of drinking was first in importance," Scott has said, "with revenues second. That order seems to have reversed — but control is still important."

Scott reportedly leans to finding new ways to increase the state's liquor profits — a monopoly does help in setting high retail prices — and now he's for trying self-service at some locations.

Scott acknowledges there will be some resistance, mainly because self service leads to impulse buying, and impulse buying creates higher sales.

But it doesn't really worry him, noting that few objected when state stores began displaying bottles of wine in front of the counters.

Promotion pays off in sales. And sales means profits. From income that the state can increase teacher salaries, give more scholarships, build new hospitals.

Of the total, Philadelphians are expected to buy $114 million, while residents of Allegheny County will take nearly $102 million. The smallest quota, $51,000, is for Forest County.

Bobby May Enter Ind. Primary

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has all but decided to enter Indiana's May 7 presidential primary, setting up a potential three-way race with Sen. Eugene McCarthy and a stand-in for President Johnson.

It was understood Wednesday that Kennedy, the New York senator who is challenging the President for the nomination, may fly to Indianapolis Thursday. That is the deadline for filing petitions declaring his candidacy.

He would be running against Gov. Roger Branigan, representing President Johnson, and probably also against Sen. McCarthy, D. Minn., whose supporters say they have enough petition signatures to qualify him for the ballot.

The Hoosier state has 63 delegates to the Democratic national convention. The state's prospective slate is reported leaning toward Johnson.

Kennedy, in announcing his candidacy March 16, said he would support McCarthy in those primaries where the Minnesota senator has entered. McCarthy has yet to accept the offer and is campaigning on his own in Wisconsin.

Longshoremen's Strike Clogs Port of New York

NEW YORK (AP) — An armada of some 160 idled ships clogged the nation's biggest port Wednesday as a longshoremen's strike dwindled fruit and foreign car supplies and threatened to rot tons of perishable foods.

Luxury liner passengers struggled with their own baggage and faced limited menus once they sailed because of the difficulty of getting provisions aboard ships without dock workers.

The cost of the 10-day-old walkout by nearly 22,000 longshoremen — set off by a feud with a port agency over new hiring practices — is mounting at a $3-million-a-day clip. The estimated $30-million lost so far embraces the effect on a host of innocent industries dependent on the waterfront and costs to the city economy and to communities across the harbor in New Jersey.

The strike by the International Longshoremen's Association, AFL-CIO, stranded 107 ships at piers by Wednesday and another 50 at moorings in the harbor.

Drowned Bank Executive Responsible for Bomb Death

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—A California bank executive who drowned March 8 sent the bus-purchase bomb which killed a government physicist at his home in nearby Avon Feb. 24, Lorain County Coroner Paul J. Kopsch said Wednesday.

Kopsch also released parts of an FBI investigation report tracing the bomb package to Albert A. Ricci, 53, former vice president of the Crocker-Citizens' National Bank at Petaluma, Calif.

The coroner said there would be no inquest and he considered the bomb death of Samuel Hammons Jr., 42, a closed case.

"The bomb, a childish and poorly designed one, was an unnecessary attempt by Mr. Ricci to remove the supposed rival in an extramarital affair," Coroner Kopsch said. He added:

"Mr. Ricci is now beyond the reach of mortal law as he drowned March 8. His paranoid behavior bordered on the psychotic in the last few weeks of his life, and one can only regret that he did not seek psychiatric help."

"Two lives have been lost and the two widows and their children have suffered greatly as a result of Mr. Ricci's illness," the FBI report said. Inquiries by agents "disclosed that Hammons was romantically involved with another woman who was also romantically involved with Albert A. Ricci, a resident of Sonoma, Calif., and an assistant manager of a branch bank in Petaluma."

Ricci, father of two and head of the Sonoma County Heart Fund drive, was found drowned in 10 feet of water in a pond near the Petaluma-Sonoma Highway. His car was in shallower water about 75 feet away.

Seek More Public Assistance

HARRISBURG (AP) — More than 400 welfare recipients staged an orderly demonstration here Wednesday in a move for increased public assistance grants.

The demonstration was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Welfare Rights Organization which brought pickets from various parts of the state to march in front of the Capitol.

Inside, Secretary of Welfare Thomas W. Georges Jr. appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee and asked for $18.2 million, effective Jan. 1, to bring welfare recipients closer to "the minimum standard of health and decency."

Georges told the committee that the current level of public assistance payments provided for only 72 per cent of the minimum. Appropriation of the $18.2 million, together with $10 million in federal funds, would raise the state to 90 per cent.

"We want 100 per cent, and we want it effective July 1, not Jan. 1," a leader of the demonstration told a newsmen on the Capitol steps.

"We're here for more adequate grants, and we're demanding sufficient money to meet the rising cost of living," said Mrs. Roxanne Jones of Philadelphia.

Richard Brown of Reading, another leader, said the welfare group considered public assistance "a right not a privilege" and that the demonstrators were demanding their rights.

Georges, who met with officials of the organization two weeks ago, said he sympathized with relief recipients but said the state lacked the funds.

Court Asked to Roll Back War Chest Dues Hike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A steelworker who plans running for his union's presidency joined three other union members Wednesday in asking the courts to roll back a special dues hike passed to build a union war chest.

One of the men filing suit in U.S. District Court was Donald C. Rarick, who is preparing to run against President, W. Abel of the United Steelworkers Union and who made an unsuccessful attempt to block the dues hike at last week's Atlantic City convention. It was the second time Rarick has bucked a dues increase.

The suit accused Abel and other officials of "exercising arbitrary and despotic control over the special convention, thereby depriving plaintiff and other members of the labor organization to a basically democratic union."

The convention agreed by voice vote at the convention to assess members $5 apiece for the next three months to replace funds depleted by the eight-month copper strike and to put the Steelworkers on a firm financial footing for the national aluminum and basic steel talks this summer.

Dues were $5 a month before the hike.

It was the first increase in 12 years, Rarick fought the last dues hike—a $2 one—and lost.

The convention also agreed to up dues permanently on a sliding scale based on each member's earnings. It would range from $5 to $10.

Rarick and his followers kept up a 3½-hour vocal battle over the increased dues.

The suit charged that Abel ignored the union's weighted vote rule, allowed staff representatives to be seated as delegates, failed to take a roll call vote and made no provision to prevent outsiders from voting.

The suit said the alleged violations, in effect, disenfranchised the union rank-and-file.

Rarick is a steelworker at U.S. Steel Corp.'s nearby Irvin Works.

Abel isn't up for election until February, 1969, but Rarick has already said he'll try to oust the first-term Steelworker head.

Rarick provided the first contested presidential campaign in Steelworker history and lost to David McDonald, 223,516 to 404,172, in 1957. Abel defeated McDonald in the next election.

Grand Valley Sanford News

By JOYCE L. BROWN

The neighborhood was shocked last week at the news of the death of Carl "Tim" Garber. Heartfelt sympathy is extended to his family. Funeral services in his memory were held Friday afternoon and dinner was served to the family at the family home after the service by the Ladies Aid at Sanford. Mr. Arthur Garber and Mr. Howard Garber were home from Florida for the funeral. They also called on many friends and relatives before returning Sunday. They expect to come back to Pennsylvania in a few weeks now.

Sympathy also is extended to the family of Mrs. Pauline Sadina.

Ladies Aid will be Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Phoebe Allen. At this time plans will be made for Union Aid dinner to be held late in April at Grand Valley E.U.B. Church fellowship hall.

Last Friday Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ongle, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Benton Van Guilder, drove to North East. They were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ongle. Their grandson Gary Ongle was home. The young man attends Robert's Wesleyan College at North Child, New York, as a junior.

Recently the Ongles entertained their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Ongle, and daughters Kathy and Melody, of Jamestown, N. Y. Also recent guests were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ongle, Karen and Mark, and Mr. and Mrs. B. R. VanGuilder.

Sunday callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Allen were Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Allen and Dan and Debbie, all of Youngsville.

Have you ordered your Girl Scout cookies? The annual cookie sale is now in progress and the girls are doing their best with this project. The cookies are good too!

The Cadet Scouts met at the home of Mrs. Ila Moronski for their meeting Monday evening. The entire troop was present. The girls had a good time making and eating hoagie sandwiches.

John Moronski is better but not able to return to work yet. Sanford prayer meeting was held last Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marshall. There were seven people present.

Grand Valley Sanford E.U.B. Youth Fellowship are having a bowling party at the Titusville Bowling alleys on Saturday evening. The young people are also hard at work on the play they hope to present in the not too far distant future.

Mrs. Alice Ryckman spent some time recently visiting friends in Jamestown, N. Y. She is at home again now.

Sunday callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Ellis were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ellis of Youngsville.

There seems to be a great deal of illness in the community. Best wishes for a speedy recovery to every one.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Holcomb have returned home following their trip. First they spent two weeks visiting relatives in Niles, Michigan, then drove to Oklahoma City, Okla., where they visited their daughter June and family, then on to Nashville, Tenn., where they stopped to see daughter Kathy and family. From there they went to Welbourne, Fla., spent two days seeing people they knew when living there during last winter. Then to Lake Helen, Fla., and visited Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rhinehart, also visiting many friends and relatives in other parts of Florida. They report that the neighbors in Florida all appear to be quite well and that they had a wonderful time while there. They had good weather for most of their trip.

The nominating committee had no report as yet but election will take place at next month's meeting.

The executive committee suggested that an increase of $10.00, making a donation of $35.00 to the Warren County Scholarship fund and it was voted on favorably.

An announcement was made of a Regional Meeting in Meadville on April 5, 1968. Anyone interested in attending may contact Mr. Clair Cable or Mrs. Clarence Carlson.

Mrs. Fern Way's first grade won the attendance award and home room banner. The penny collection, which will be their Founder's Day gift amounted to $6.25.

Mrs. Cable presented the "Sweet Adelines" led by Sue Houston, who sang several numbers.

A film strip "One to Grow On" was also shown.

The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served by Mrs. Margaret Duell's third grade mothers, Mrs. James Brecht and Mrs. James Henderson.

Mrs. Clara Bailey entertained members of the TF Club, with eleven members present.

Plans were made for packing a box for John Briggs, who is serving in Vietnam. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Hugh McKelvey in Warren.

Service Station Holdup Ends in Three-Hour Chase

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A $60 service station holdup started police on a three-hour, bullet-splattered automobile chase at speeds up to 100 miles per hour Wednesday.

One of the fleeing men stole an unmarked squad car and the officers' pistols. He was finally cornered beneath a pile of wood and bricks in a dark, abandoned railroad tunnel and surrendered without further struggle.

Tom Bartolini, 23, of suburban Jefferson said he was alone in the Hi-Fy service station when two men came in for service before dawn.

As Bartolini went to collect the money, he said the driver stuck a pistol out the window and said, "Give it to me!" Bartolini emptied his pockets and the cash drawer.

As the men drove off, Bartolini borrowed a dime from a customer who had just pulled in and called police.

Officers said they caught up with the men within minutes.

Patrolman Al Basich said he and a fellow officer chased the car at speeds of from 85 to 100 miles per hour until the fleeing men lost control on a curve in West Mifflin and the car glanced off a series of utility poles.

The pair jumped out. "One took off to the right," said Basich, and surrendered.

"The other ran off to the left and started shooting at me. And naturally I started to fire back," Basich said they both emptied their guns before the men

Broderick Says No Compromise At Con Con

YORK, Pa. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Raymond J. Broderick rejected Wednesday the proposition that the work of the Constitutional Convention was nothing more than a compromise.

"Our recommendations are not as some would have you believe, compromises," Broderick said in a York speech.

"They are the opinions of a majority of delegates after 90 days of debate and almost 400 votes taken on the floor of the convention," he continued.

"The Convention molded a divergence of views into recommendations which the majority of delegates consider workable for today, tomorrow, and the 21st century."

Broderick, who served as convention president, has been named head of a special "Committee For Five Yes Votes" attempting to win voter approval of the five convention proposals on the April 23 ballot.

"When the people go to the polls April 23 and vote yes five times, Pennsylvania will have the framework which it urgently needs to make our state the finest place on earth to work and play, to raise and educate our children and our children's children," he said.

The convention proposals would revise existing constitutional language pertaining to local government, taxation and finance, judiciary, and legislative apportionment.

Woman Acquitted Of Influencing Jury

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Katharine C. Schumacher, 59, of Scranton, Pa., was acquitted Wednesday of charges of tampering with a jury that found promoters of Krebiozen not guilty of fraud.

Krebiozen is a substance used by some cancer sufferers.

Mrs. Schumacher was charged with trying to influence decisions of eight persons who served on the jury in the Krebiozen fraud trial in 1966 and 1967.

That trial ran nine months,

Basich said officers — using flashlights in the dark tunnel — finally spotted the man's feet sticking from beneath the pile of rubbish and ordered him out.

The man in the tunnel was identified as Morris Hayes, 39, of Pittsburgh. He and Luther Herron, 32, of Pittsburgh were charged with armed robbery and assault.

Named President

Dr. Laurence L. Lathrop, Emory, assumed the office of president of the Pennsylvania Dental Association March 22 at the close of the Association's 100th Anniversary Convention in Philadelphia. Other officers elected at this meeting were Dr. Willis J. McCormick, Haverford, president elect; Dr. Frank J. Sammartino, Philadelphia, vice president; Dr. Stephen L. Kondis, Munhall, secretary; and Dr. Donald R. Wolford, Johnstown, treasurer. Dr. Jay H. Eshleman, Philadelphia, was nominated to a second term as trustee, and the House of Delegates voted to continue financial support to the Pennsylvania Dental Service Corporation.

Jefferson School

Parents in the area of Jefferson School who wish to send a child to kindergarten next fall, and have not yet been contacted by the school, are requested to call 723-9061. Children are eligible for kindergarten next fall if they will be five years old on or before Jan. 31, 1969.

British-French Superjet's Future Very Uncertain

PARIS (AP) — There are nagging doubts on both sides of the English Channel that the supersonic Concorde will ever go into service.

The main reasons are financial and political. As for the plane's technical capabilities, French and British engineers connected with the joint project are convinced Concorde can do everything that was promised for it.

The doubts spring from a feeling that the British government, under pressure to make economies, may withdraw from the project when its treaty with France permits it to; that is, after the flight-testing phase of the prototypes.

The feeling of these anti-Concorde officials is that the Concorde as a prestige project ranks low in Britain's scale of priorities while the country is economically beset.

Spiraling costs provide arguments for Concorde's foes.

France and England signed an agreement Nov. 29, 1962 to build what was to be the world's first supersonic passenger plane. Joint development costs were estimated at $420 million, to be shared equally by Sud Aviation, No. 1 airframe builder in France, and the British Aircraft Corp., with the backing of their governments. The agreement involved a commitment to construct two—later four—prototype aircraft and two extra airframes for structural testing.

Two years later, the figure was revised to $784 million. By 1966 the estimated development costs had surpassed $1 billion, and last year were calculated to be $1.4 billion, plus $168 million in direct government spending for tools and test facilities. About $600 million has been spent.

In addition, there have been reports that the builders will lose more than $2 million on every plane sold unless orders for Concorde increase dramatically. So far, 74 paid options have been placed.

Based on a production run of 100 planes, it has been estimated that the real cost per copy will be $2.5 million over the purchase price agreed to by the airlines. The difference presumably would be made up by the two governments.

"If it turns out that the British taxpayer will be contributing up to 50 per cent of every Concorde passenger's fare, we will have a lot of explaining to do," a British official remarked.

One French official said that if the British canceled at the end of the flight-testing phase, France probably would be forced to drop the project—"It would be too much for us to carry on alone."

French-British relations have been strained by French opposition to Britain's Common Market bid.

A sign of this strain appeared last January after The Associated Press disclosed that the maiden flight of the first Concorde prototype would not take place Feb. 28 as planned.

French Transport Minister Jean Chamant blamed the delay on late delivery of the British-made Olympus 593 engines to the Sud Aviation works in Toulouse where the French-built prototype, 001, has been assembled. In fact, the engines were delivered ahead of schedule, Chamant later retracted his charge.

The latest word is that 001 will be ready for its first flight in September. By that time, its British-built mate, 002, should be ready on schedule to fly at Filton, England.

Spokesmen for Sud Aviation say the delay in getting 001 off the ground has been due to minor problems and does not involve errors in design. The basic timetable calls for certification of airworthiness and production in 1971.

Since the American supersonic transport, the Boeing 2707, has been sent back to the drawing boards for design changes, the Concorde has a built-in, four-year lead over its competitor.
